A backhoe rips through the structure of Fellowship Hall, part of the First Baptist Church, last week. The church demolished the building, said to be built in the 1890's to construct a new education wing for, among other things, its Abundant Life School (photo by Arthur Zaino).

Abundant Life School moving to church site

by Jeff Nazzaro

When the Wilmington First Baptist Church was asked last year by the town to vacate the Boutwell School, which it had leased for the previous 13 years as space for its Abundant Life Christian School and Learning Center, it touched off a year for the school confirmed by the Rev. Ronald Grimley to be "crazy."

But now it seems as if the town may have been doing the church and the school a favor when it took back and refurbished the Boutwell for municipal use. Last week the church tore down Fellowship Hall, the old, white structure next to the church building, located next to Wilmington High School on Church Street. It will be replaced with a "Christian education wing," according to Grimley.

Previously, Fellowship Hall was used as a parsonage, where Grimley and his family lived upstairs, and for church suppers and other programs downstairs. Recently the church received funds to construct a new three-bedroom parsonage behind the existing building.

The new structure will indeed be a wing - attached to the present church with a common lobby in the rear and a connecting corridor in the front. It will be double the size of the old building and house the entirety of the school and provide space for the church's Youth Ministry, Pioneer Girls and Christian Service Brigade programs, Grimley said.

But finding a permanent space for the school is the church's first priority. Every year for the last five years the school was at the Boutwell, Grimley said, the town sent letters stating it was considering reusing the building. When that finally came to pass last spring, the school was out of the Boutwell in June and, after a little scrambling, situated their classes for this school year.

Grimley spoke favorably of the school's relationship with the town, begun 13 years ago when the Rev. Everett Reed, then pastor of the church, founded the school out of what Grimley called "a real sense of calling" to provide education.

"I think it was a good deal for both the town and for us," Grimley said. "We had a place to be for 13 years and kept it up and running for 13 years."

With the relationship over, the school moved its learning center (or preschool) mostly to Fellowship Hall with one class now at the Wilmington United Methodist Church. Grades K-5 are at the Old South Methodist Church in Reading and grades 6-8 are housed at St. Thomas of Villanova church in Wilmington.

"We're being very ecumenical," Grimley said, praising the other churches for reaching out and helping, despite denominational differences. "It is a credit to the ministry where those other churches have been willing to lease space to us."

But it is far from an ideal situation for the school, which Grimley takes pride as billing as a "one-stop shopping" site for parents, where education is concerned. At the Boutwell, parents could take all their kids, from infants needing daycare to eighth graders, to one location, and then pick them back up at that same spot. With the education wing, that will again be the case.

Catch the summer reading spark

by Jeff Nazzaro

With a collective spark later this month, Wilmington school children will leave the classroom for the summer. It is hoped that spark will ignite a season of summer reading at Wilmington Memorial Library.

Children's Services Librarian Eileen Broderick has designed, along with her assistant, Susan MacDonald, an exciting summer reading program based on an "imagination" theme. The program is open to readers and pre-readers.

The centerpiece and official mascot of this year's version of the summer reading program, which drew 824 town participants last year, will be a large dragon, constructed years ago by present librarian Sarah Rueter and her husband out of wood, chicken wire and paper mache.

As one of three Lucky Reader contests, summer readers will get to name the dragon. The best names submitted will be selected and then children will vote on their favorite.

The contests are just one componenf of a program packed with things for kids to do this summer while being encouraged to read. Readers will get a stamp each time they visit the library and are asked to log each book they read during the summer. Pre-readers have books read to them logged.

"We're trying to get them to read for the enjoyment of it and to keep their reading skills up over the summer," Broderick said. And she looks forward to welcoming even more youngsters into the program this summer. "We're hoping for even more this year," she said.

Registration for the program begins June 24 at the library. Children can sign up any time during the summer. The library is open Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9-5 and Tuesday and Thursday from 9-9. It is not open on weekends during the summer. Call the library's Children's Room at 658-2967 for more information or stop by any time the library is open.

Historical Commission miffed

by Jeff Nazzaro

The Wilmington Historical Commission expressed disappointment over the demolition of Fellowship Hall, the Wilmington First Baptist Church office building and parsonage adjacent to the church, last week. The church will construct a new Christian Education Wing in its place.

Commission chairperson Carolyn Harris said she was upset that the historical commission was not notified by Town Hall of permits filed to raze the structure, which she said was part of a historic district along Church Street and Middlesex Avenue.

"We're very disappointed that this building went down," Harris said. "We were unaware of their plans to demolish it."

While the historical commission has no authority to regulate demolition of historic buildings, Harris said it wishes to be aware of such plans. In those cases, she said, the commission would write letters and meet with property owners to try to avoid demolition. At very least, she said, the commission would document a building through photographs before it is torn down.

"If it's here one day and it's gone the next then it's gone and

It's the most wonderful time of the year!

by Stu Neilson

Whenever there is a crush of hospital beds screaming down Church Street propelled by local lunatics, it usually signifies a certain time of the year. What the whacky occurrence has to do with 220 years of national independence is quite another story, but one thing is for sure: for whatever reason, the bed race is part of what makes the week leading up to July 4 so special in the town of Wilmington.

Second only in popularity to the fireworks, the hospital bed race will be the featured athletic event at Wilmington's Fun on the Fourth celebration. It is scheduled for 6 p.m. on the second annual Wilmington Family Day, July 4.

The festivities that day will start at 7 a.m. with a breakfast sponsored by the Marine Corps League. Events continue all day long and into the evening. At 8:30 p.m., LMC Amusements is sponsoring the fireworks.

The hospital bed race will be bigger and better and badder than ever this year. The 4th of July Committee is adding prizes for two categories: Fastest Bed and Best Decorated Bed. Prizes in each category are: A preferred parking place for the big fireworks night and a gift certificate to Stelio's Restaurant.

What it is a race on a hospital bed (one rider, four pushers) 50 yards up Church Street and 50 yards back. This year, police will un-barricade the road just for the race, to make things a little more interesting (just kidding!).

The beds will be provided by the 4th Committee and racers can get at them any time during the day to start decorating.

Registration is available any time the 4th Headquarters is open, up until about 30 minutes before the event. And as always, the event is absolutely free.

The committee is stressing that nearly everyone is eligible to participate in this (and most of the other) events.

The rules are: you must work or live in Wilmington, or have worked or lived in Wilmington at some time, or know somebody who will say a good word for you. Any company or business can sponsor a bed. Any family or neighborhood can compete. Any group of unrelated zany characters may join in.

The invitation is out. The bed pan has been dropped. The heat is on. Get four other people to sign up with you and get in the bed (race)!

It's official! A two-page photographic look back at Commencement '96 at Wilmington High School appears on pages 8 and 9 (photo by Jeff Nazzaro).

Wilmington's State Senator, Bruce Tarr attended the Wilmington Liberty Pole weekend again this year. Again he listened to Jim Douglas sing Colonial songs about bullfrogs and tea and again Senator Tarr made the mistake of picking up on the theme as he was called upon by the crowd for a speech. His timing was perfectly wrong for a Redcoat patrol happened along during the part where he derided the king and they seized him, again, and put him before the firing squad – again. Some senators never learn!

But this year was different. From out of the crowd sprang a young lad of 5, Orion Alexander. He was determined the senator's life should be spared. He offered his body instead, placing it between Tarr and the guns! (This was not on the script!)

The Redcoats were stymied, but an officer stepped forward, threw the lad aside and dispatched the senator with his cutlass, again.

Wilmington launches new employment assistance program

Town Manager Michael Caira has announced the launch of Wilmington's Employment Assistance and Training component of the new Community Development Program. The first workshop will be held Wednesday June 19 at 7 p.m. in the auditorium at Town Hall. All Wilmington residents are encouraged to attend. The Community Development Program is sponsored by the Town of Wilmington and funded through a Community Development Block Grant from the Massachusetts Executive Office of Communities and Development.

Cathy Beyer, the program's Employment Counselor, will present information on how to access the Town's Employment Assistance and Training services. At Wilmington's new Job Resource Center, adults living in Wilmington may use computers and other office equipment for employment related activities, attend workshops to sharpen job search skills, and receive individual employment counseling. For program participants who meet low to moderate income eligibility requirements. Training Grants and Career Assessment Grants are available.

Methods to acquire and enhance computer skills for a competitive job market will be covered during the second half of Wednesday night's workshop. Participants will learn about the expanding role of computer networks, the Internet, and e-mail in the workplace. Residents who don't have up to date computer equipment will discover how they can access computers in Wilmington. According to Beyer, "Computer training, whether through the Job Resource Center or other computer classes, is a good idea for anyone who wants to get ahead."

For more information about Employment Assistance and Training call Cathy Beyer at 658-3102.

It's YOUR Money

BY JOYCE BRISBOIS

WHAT YOUR HEIRS DON'T KNOW

Almost everyone knows how vital it is to have a will that spells out how your assets should be divided and who should take care of minor children. Perhaps just as important is putting your finances in order and leaving a letter of instructions that tells family members where to find what. Think of it as a final gift.

Information they'll need includes birth date and birthplace, Social Security number, dates of any military services and details of marriages and divorces. Name any financial advisors, individuals who have power of attorney or health care proxies. If there are trusts, list the trustees. Note if anyone owes you money.

List the institutions and numbers of savings and checking accounts; list names and account numbers for credit cards, mutual funds and brokerages. List benefits due from any past or current employer. List your assets and your debts. Note any gifts over $10,000 you've given in any one year and save copies of any gift tax returns filed.

Our flag keeps our nation together

by Kristin Lamb
Trahan School, Grade 5

There are several different reasons why honoring our country's flag is important to the United States.

One of the many different reasons on why honoring our country's flag is so important is because our flat represents who and what we are. Our flag also represents our country in the Olympics.

To show that respecting and honoring our flat is important we have the National Anthem and the Pledge of Allegiance.

I think our flag keeps our nation together. I also believe that without our flag there would not be one reason to respect our country.

Our flag is red, white and blue. The stripes on our flag are red and white. On our flag there is a blue box on the top left hand corner and in that box there are 50 white stars.

Each of the 50 stars on our flag represents one of the 50 states. I live in Massachusetts which is the sixth state. The sixth star on the flag represents Massachusetts.

If each person in our country would honor our country's flag we would almost have perfect nation.

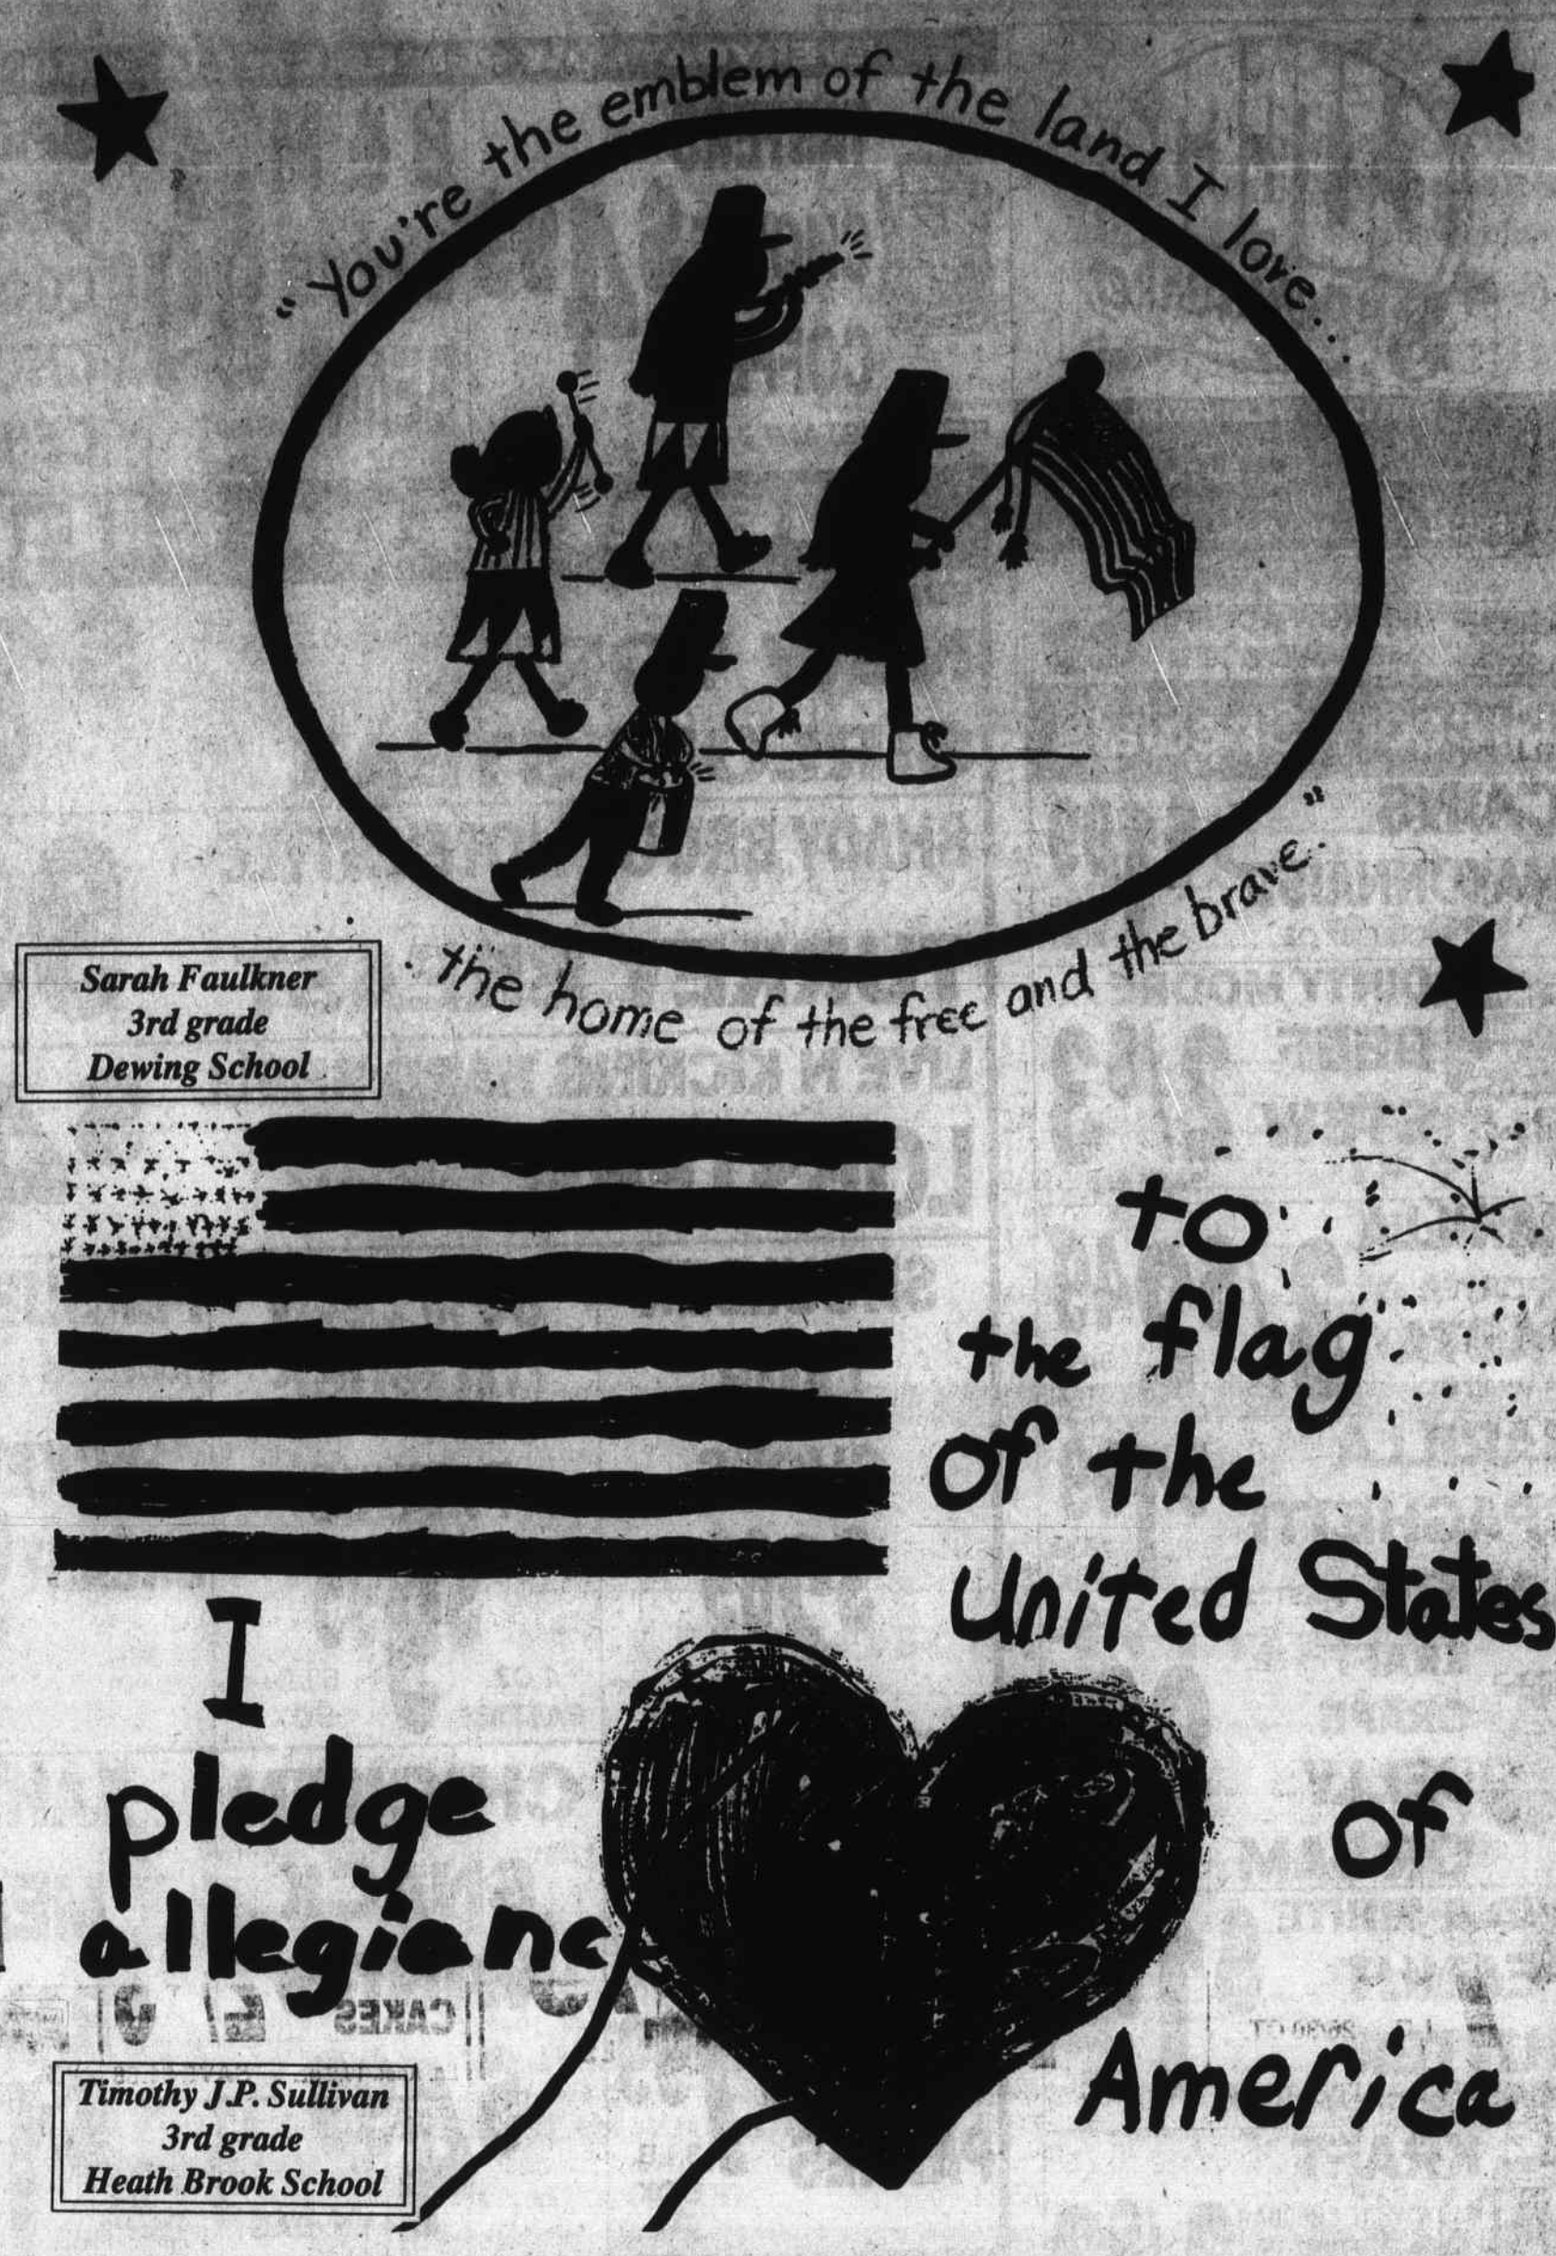

These are the things I feel when I see our flag

by Geoffrey Luciano
Dewing School, Grade 4

When I salute the flag, I look at the stars standing for the 50 states. I look at the stripes representing the 13 original colonies. I look at the color red standing for courage. I look at the color white standing for purity. I look at the color blue standing for justice. All part of the American Flag. These are the things I see when I salute the flag.

The flag represents a lot to our country, and to the world. It represents opportunity where people from other counties can come to our country and build a better life. The flag represents strength. Soldiers have fought for our country as well as other countries.

Another thing the flag stands for is pride. I am proud to be part of the greatest nation in the world. Most of all the flag stands for freedom. Our country is free. We have the freedom to do what ever we want. We have the freedom of speech. These are the things I feel when I see our flag.

Just for a laugh

Yes, dear ... it's Father's day

by Bill Conlon

I saw something on a nature program recently that hit me where I live.

A pride of lions was lounging in the shade, under a sweltering sun. Most of the cats were asleep, a few of the lionesses watched the horizon, and the cubs — well, "kittens" of all species are either asleep or bouncing all over the place — were joyfully bouncing.

In this footage, two cubs were badgering an old male. They tugged at his tail and nipped his ears, and the big guy just lay there, taking it.

I know how that lion felt. I've worn the same expression, more than a few times. It's the "fatherhood" look.

You want to growl; you really do. But the repercussions would greatly outweigh any satisfaction from roaring, so you just endure it. Shut up and take your lumps. Be a man! Do your suffering in silence!

I don't get many lion cubs tugging at my ears, but life is full of quiet little sufferings nonetheless. Good fathers endure them all.

"You didn't wipe your feet before you came in! Look at this floor!"

Yes dear. I'll never wear shoes again, so help me.

"Did you leave the seat up AGAIN? How many times do I have to ..."

Yes dear. I'm sorry I was born male. Please mention it to my mother.

"Daddy, daddy! The Ice Cream Man is here! Can I have a dollar?"

Oh, yes dear. (Hmm. They start early, don't they? Must be genetic.)

Fatherhood. Endurance. The days of fire and thunder are gone, pal. No longer can you rant, rave and explode to get what you want. You might have been the prince, once, but now you must compromise to keep the peace. If you compromise, everything will be fine.

"Have you changed your oil yet? We can't afford a new truck ..."

Yes dear. Soon as the game's over.

"Daddy, can the girls sleep over tonight?"

Yes dear. I'd rather do my own dental work, but the Midnight Gigglers can sleep over again this weekend. Sigh.

"Look at this shower curtain! You must be yanking the curtain instead of pulling it aside! Look at these loops! They're all ripped!"

Yes dear. I'll bathe in the icy stream out back from now on.

The last thing that big lion needed on a hot afternoon was a pair of cubs in his face. The poor guy. But I was proud of him. He suffered stoically.

Well ... up to a point. The big male finally had his fill of rowdy cubs, and belted one of his antagonists. Tumbled the little kit, end over end, then went back to sleep. The footage ended with two lionesses walking up to the big male, so we can only imagine the rest. Boy, was he about to get it!

Happy father's day, fellas. Have a beer, watch the game, snooze on the couch just like that big old lion. You've earned a day off, just by avoiding a manslaughter charge. Can you imagine it ... we used to be kings, once!

"The lawn looks like a jungle! Are you gonna cut the grass?"

Yes dear. Right after I change the oil in the truck, dear. Uh-huh.

ZZZ ... bottom of the third, runners on first and second with nobody out and here comes Mo Vaughn, who so far this season is ... ZZZ.

Boy, I hope she never figures out what "yes dear" means in Manspeak. I'd be one dead lion, for sure. Yaaaawn...

Letters to the editor

Why is Gillis misleading Wilmington?

Dear Larz:

On June 6, 1996, Wilmington High School held its annual Senior Awards Banquet to honor the student-athletes at the high school.

All of the 1995-1996 coaches were invited to attend this banquet to present their awards to their athletes. The football coach of the past three years, Gerald Sullivan, was not informed of this banquet in the manner that the other coaches were (by Mr. Gillis). Gerald saw it advertised on WCTV.

Why did Mr. Gillis attempt to deny Gerald the opportunity to express his gratitude to the football team and most especially the senior athletes?

Gerald decided to attend the banquet, which he had every right to do, and when he arrived he received a program as well as a listing of head coaches for the 1995-96 season. On the coach listing next to "football" was the name Bob Almeida.

Why was Bob Almeida's name on there and not the true coach of the 1995 season? Was Mr. Gillis going to have Bob Almeida present these awards to Gerald's players or was he going to do it himself? Either way, neither Bob Almeida nor Mr. Gillis know the players well enough to present the awards with sincere appreciation.

On the program that was distributed to all attendees there was a note on the back from Mr. Gillis that stated "... and I am ever grateful to the coaches who have guided them along the way."

If Mr. Gillis was so grateful to the coaches, why were the football coaches excluded from the invitation list to attend the banquet? Has Mr. Gillis ever thanked any of his coaches for what they have done for the athletic department (i.e., fund-raisers, collecting user fees, arranging buses for scrimmages/games, etc.?) Well he should because they are all doing his job in one way or another.

On April 24, 1996 my brother-in-law Leo Campbell attended the school committee meeting to address some issues with respect to the athletic department and Mr. Gillis. One the school committee members, Judson Miller, requested that Mr. Gillis attend the next meeting to answer the questions that were mentioned.

The next meeting was held on May 8, 1996 and Mr. Gillis did not attend and to this day has not publicly answered any questions with respect to the athletic department or how he manages it.

Why is Mr. Gillis continually getting away with misleading all the good people of Wilmington into believing that he is doing his job as the Director of Physical Education and Athletics?

I am asking you, the town people, to please come forward and address your thoughts and/or concerns. The children that are, and the children that will be suffering because of what Mr. Gillis does are yours.

I do not have any children but I am actively involved with the Pop Warner program and I do not want to see any of those children lose out on being involved in athletics for the town of Wilmington.

Being involved in some type of athletic team means a lot to the children in this town and if Mr. Gillis continues to manage athletics the way he is there will no longer be an athletic program. The town needs to get together and stop this nonsense that continues to worsen as time goes on.

Cemetery experience is shared

Dear Larz:

Thank you Michelle, for having the courage to write about your disappointing experience at the cemetery. You are not alone.

It is difficult enough to lose a loved one, but to realize it may be a resident of your own town who may feel your tribute to your loved ones are better suited for another location.

We all pray for our loved ones, and that we are wrong in this assumption.

But unfortunately ... we don't think so.

Do you remember The North Wilmington Synagogue?

by Capt. Larz Neilson

Eight Jews, all from Wilmington, met in a field in 1917 and decided to build a house of worship. In the group were Jacob Cheivitz, Joshua Cohen, Hyman Minsky, Joseph Minsky, Harry Modelevsky, Morris Modelevsky, Harry Solow and Joseph Winer. They met to decide on what should be done

It was voted that each person should contribute $5, and they then had a treasury of $40. Joshua Cohen was voted chairman and Harry Modelevsky the vice chairman. Jacob Cheivitz was made secretary and Joseph Minsky treasurer.

A Mr. Adelman owned some land on Salem Street in North Wilmington Mr. Cheivitz and Mr. Modelevsky went to his home and secured the site for their place of worship. He also contributed $100.

Then came the task of building the synagogue. Peter Neilson, a local mason, agreed to construct the cellar for $300. After that the members started their construction of their house of worship.

Finally, the walls and roof were up. But the roof, not well constructed, leaked. When the rain came it was sometimes in torrents, but they stayed, and they conducted their worship.

A Torah was needed. With the help of a club organized by the ladies a Torah was purchased for $150. The date of the completion of the work was August 15, 1917.

In 1930 the congregation was the proud possessor of two Torahs and many Bibles. The membership had increased to 16 men, all striving for the success of their synagogue.

Regular worship services were held, the men on one side of the building and the ladies on the other, as is customary in Jewish services. Later a kitchen was constructed, and after evening services a nice meal would be served, at about the hour of 11:30 p.m.

It was a pleasant feature to complete the worship service.

Harry Solow was a regular member of congregation Harry's home was almost in back of the synagogue, on Cobalt Street.

He worked for the Wilmington Water Department, as a man who could and did weld pipes.

The Town Crier once told a story of the "Blessing of the Water Department" an event that occurred about 1927, in which the clergy of Wilmington all took part. Harry was working nearby, in a water trench, welding a water pipe.

He was born in Russia, in a territory which was easterly of Yalta, the place where President Franklin Roosevelt had a post-war meeting with Stalin.

Harry made his way across the countries of Europe in the days before World War One, and he did it on foot. He finally arrived in England and eventually he was in Liverpool, where he succeeded in getting a voyage to the United States. Finally he was in Wilmington, Mass.

Harry was a fine person to know. His daughter, a nurse, married, took care of the house. A grandson in the US Army was serving in England, and is there today. Mrs. Solow passed away, from diabetes and complications.

It was Harry Solow, one can say, who introduced this writer to the North Wilmington Synagogue, as it was known to persons who were not Jewish. Every now and then Harry would suggest that this writer should attend a service.

There was no rabbi. A Cantor, the person who leads the congregation in song, led the congregation in worship services. The synagogue just could not afford a rabbi.

But this cantor did more. He was aware that the stranger in the Synagogue was a newspaper writer. That visitor, if he so chose, could provide some favorable publicity.

Photographs were a forbidden subject during the services in a synagogue. But every now and then the Cantor would stop the services to talk about and show what was going to happen next. That was when the writer had an opportunity to use his camera. Then the cantor would resume with the regular services.

And, after the services, everyone would go to the next room where the ladies of the congregation had provided a nice dinner. It generally started at about 11 p.m. and ended about midnight.

Always the end of a pleasant evening.

Temple Shalom of Wilmington seems to have started sometime after the conflict known as World War II, in the building which had been known to Wilmington people as the "North Wilmington Synagogue." Some time before 1960 services were held in Temple Shalom. It is quite possible that there were services between the time of the "Synagogue" and the time of the "Temple."

But old timers of Wilmington still refer to the building as the "North Wilmington Synagogue."

It was on land formerly owned by Aaron Adelman, who lived, it seems, in Boston. He had sold the land to the Synagogue on the 21st day of October, 1919. The land faced on Salem Street, lots 53 and 54, totaling 5255 square feet. The deed was dated in the Lowell Registry of Deeds on August 24, 1924.

This writer attended services without being aware of the different name.

Temple Shalom of Wilmington was formerly organized on June 1, 1965. The members as listed by the Massachusetts Secretary of State were, Harry Solow, Samuel Schwartz, Leslie Wener, Julius Gordon, Simon Cutter, Harry Wiseman, Samuel Levine, Morris Modelle and Benjamin Weinberg.

It might be noted that nine members were named. The Jewish tradition is that it takes 10 males to hold a religious service.

Sam Schwartz, who lives in Wilmington's Hathaway Acres is one person who is aware of this tradition. Several times, in years past this writer has heard it said that Sam was asking "When will Wilmington get its 10th Jew?"

But services were held in the old Synagogue, services which were found to be a pleasure to attend. Sometimes there were 14 or 15 male Jews present. At other times there were less than 10.

As time went on the number of Jewish males diminished. It was voted to dissolve during the fall of 1981. It was Simon Cutter, an attorney who lives on Church Street who took care of the dissolution. After the costs of dissolution of Temple Shalom had been cared for there was a sum of $35,177.88 remaining.

It was decided to send one half of the money to the State of Israel, and one quarter to each of two neighborhood Jewish temples, one being Temple Shalom Emeth in Burlington and the other being Temple Emmanuel of Wakefield.

A letter from Israel, dated January 1, 1982, is worth quoting in part. It was signed by Mier Aramee, of the Prime Minister's office.

"I have been asked by the Prime Minister's Bureau to express our appreciation for the fine gesture of the officers of Temple Shalom of Wilmington, Massachusetts, in appropriating one half of the congregation's remaining fund directly to the State of Israel. it seems fitting if I may say so that a religious institution bearing the name Shalom be forever associated with and enshrined in the Jewish State, whose foundations and everlasting prayers are bound up on the word and concept of Shalom - Peace."

Tewksbury Funeral Home • 1 Dewey St • Tewksbury • 851-2061

The Tewksbury Funeral Home was founded in 1956 by Walter J. Deputat and his wife Gloria A. (Roux) Deputat. Together, they transformed this Victorian style single family residence, dating from 1895 to its current form. The name was given for the Town, rather than for the family name, primarily to indicate the desire to serve the entire population, rather than a particular ethnic or religious segment of the community.

Walter and Gloria entered into semi-retirement in 1984, when they passed ownership to their youngest son, Joel. Since that time Walter and Gloria have divided the year between Tewksbury, Florida and New Hampshire. Joel has continued in the tradition established by his father of personal service within the community, while continuing to upgrade the facilities.

The focus of the funeral home is to provide a complete range of funeral service. "The focus of our service is the bereaved, rather than the deceased," says Joel. This explains the warm, home like appearance within the funeral home. Contrast this with a typical funeral parlor with its rows of chairs arranged to face toward the deceased. "Our arrangement is much more conducive to the healing process, which is, before all else, our primary concern."

In response to a growing demand by today's population, the funeral services offered have expanded into pre-planning of funeral services. With the ability to "customize" a package to fit a particular need, and the addition of membership into the "Forethought" Group, the Tewksbury Funeral Home continues to offer the best value available to today's consumer.

Personalized service, beautiful building, central location, and staff experience are but a few reasons why more people choose the Tewksbury Funeral Home in their hour of need.

This year's event marks the council's 16th annual art exhibition. It will be held on two successive days: The gallery will be open to the public viewing Saturday, June 22 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday, June 23 from 1 to 4 p.m.

Completed applications must be returned to the Town Hall by 4 p.m. Friday, June 14 Work must be delivered to the Arts Center Wednesday June 19 from 6 to 8 p.m. It must be picked up at the close of the exhibition on Sunday..

This is a juried show and is judged by three professional artists. There is no charge for exhibiting nor will a commission be charged for any sale. The Center is handicapped accessible and there is ample room for wheelchairs and children's carriages. Admission is free.

More information may be obtained by calling 658-2100 or 658-2042.

Theatre Workshop to sponsor tap class

The North Regional Theatre Workshop (NRTW) will sponsor a Tap Workshop on six Tuesdays this summer, from June 11 to July 16. NRTW is a non profit community theatre company. Two one hour class levels are offered to beginner adult at 6:30 p.m. and intermediate/refresher adult at 7:30. Participants should be at least high school age.

The Tap Workshop will be taught by Paul Greene, NRTW's resident director, with assistance from other qualified NRTW members. In addition to choreographing all NRTW productions since 1978, Mr. Greene is a dance instructor at Doreen Galli's School of Dance in Revere. "Tapping is a great way to keep in shape while having some fun," says Greene.

The Tap Workshop will be conducted at the Union Congregational Church, Haverhill St., No. Reading. Class fees are $30 for NRTW members and high school students, and $36 for non-members; payable at the first class.

Pre-registration by phone is required. Please call 508-681-0355 to register or for more information.

LWV Crafts Fair

The Annual Crafts Fair on the Common, sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Wilmington will take place Saturday, June 15 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the Town Common across from the High School. In addition to many crafters and artisans there will be refreshments for all, and face painting, pony rides and t-shirt painting for the kids. Voter registration forms and the new Wilmington Town Handbook will also be available.

In the event of rain the Fair will be held in the WHS cafeteria. For additional information call 657-7941 or 658-2709. Proceeds from the Crafts Fair help fund the League's high school scholarship and numerous citizen education activities.

Correction: In last week's article entitled "Yes, we've read 7,140 good books lately!", the photo caption should have read "John McGloughin". The photographer apologizes for the misspelling.

Wilmington High School Graduation - 1996

Valedictorian Daniel King is a study in reflection as he addresses his Class of '96 mates during Sunday afternoon's commencement exercises.

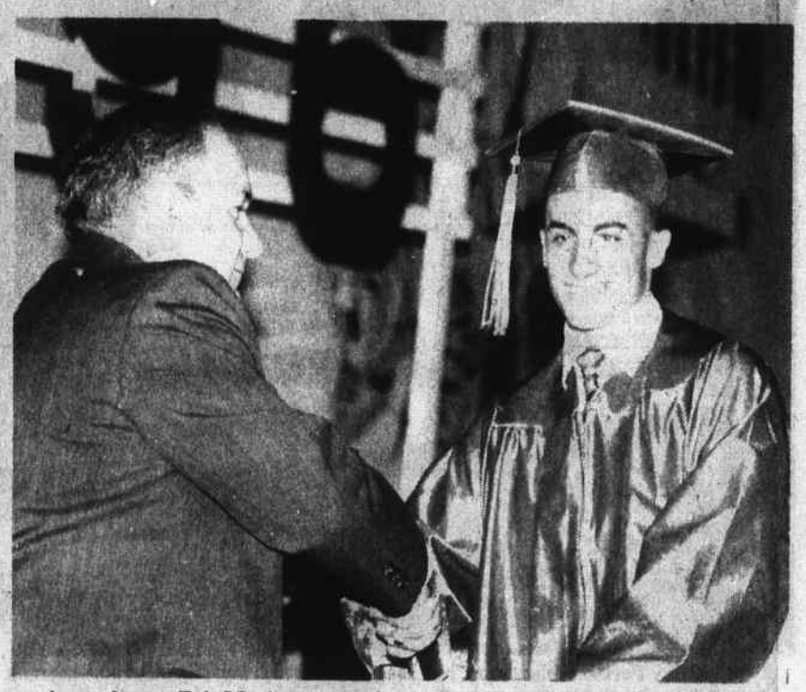

Ah-hah! Nick Pavlidis blows one heckuva big bubble during graduation ceremonies in the WHS gym Sunday. One question, how did he get the magic marker on the gum?

A very happy Eric Morin puts a grip to school committeeman Paul Palizzolo after receiving his diploma.

American Cancer Society asks for volunteers to drive

Today's cancer treatments work better than ever. They just don't work from 40 miles away.

The American Cancer Society is currently seeking volunteers from the Greater Lowell area to drive cancer patients to their treatment appointments. "If you have a car, and sometime available between 9 and 5, you could make a real difference in someone's life by becoming a volunteer driver," said Ms. Graziano, Road to Recovery coordinator for the American Cancer Society's Greater Lowell Unit.

A cancer patient who needs radiation therapy could need between 20 and 30 trips to the clinic within six weeks. A patient receiving chemotherapy might report for treatment weekly for up to a year. "Treatment can make a patient feel to sick to drive. In many cases, a patient is driven to hospitals and clinics by relatives or friends, but occasionally even they need to seek alternative transportation. That's where Road to Recovery comes in, "Mrs. Graziano said.

Volunteer drivers receive training from the American Cancer Society, and are asked to volunteer for one or two mornings or afternoons each month. Ms. Graziano and other volunteers match drivers' availability with the needs of patients who call.

"Driving patients is one of the most rewarding jobs you can do as a volunteer," Ms. Graziano said. "Sometimes a driver will have the opportunity to take the same patient several times, get to know them, and be able to offer support. Especially for patients who have no family in the area, volunteer drivers really make a difference."

For more information, or as Road to Recovery, contact the American Cancer Society at 508-988-3600 x 228.

Cancer information is available by contacting the American Society at 1-800-ACS-2345, Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. or Friday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Information is also available through the internet at http://www.ma.cancer.org.

Altron proposes new building in Woburn

by Capt. Larz Neilson

Altron, of One Jewel Drive, Wilmington is a firm which was started in Woburn some years ago. It happens to have the most employees of any company in Wilmington. The firm is engaged in the construction of high-tech circuit boards. It's largest contract is reported to be with Motorola.

City officials in Woburn, June 3, became excited, according to the Woburn Times Chronicle with reports that Altron is considering a large expansion into that city. Altron has one branch in Woburn at this time, at the site from which it started.

The plans are for two, two story buildings, each of about 100,000 square feet. It is expected, according to the Times Chronicle, that the plans will be presented to the Woburn Planning Board later this month.

The buildings are reported to be planned for construction on Presidential Way in Woburn, close to the Wilmington line.

Support group for aging

Winchester Hospital offers a support group for families who are caring for an aging relative. The group focuses on information sharing, identifying health issues, and offering peer support for those in a similar situation. Social workers facilitate the discussion.

These support groups take place on the second Thursday of each month from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Activities Room of Winchester Nursing Center, 223 Swanton St., Winchester. The next meeting will be held on June 13.

This support group is free and no registration is required. For more information call Greta Roberts at 617-756-2633.

A wedding at sea? Not Capt. Larz!

by Capt. Larz Neilson

A wedding at sea! Romantic? Something to be remembered??

This writer, while in command of the Chanute Victory forbad such a wedding. Not on his ship!

The ship's chaplain came bustling up to the captain's office, while the Chanute was loading U.S. soldiers, in the port of Le Havre, France.

"Isn't it wonderful, captain, we are going to have a wedding on board?!"

He probably was looking at the fact that he would be officiating at a wedding ceremony at sea.

The bride-to-be was probably feeling about how romantic it would be to be married by the captain of a ship.

Yes, there can be occasions when such a thing can happen, but no shipmaster is happy about it. He has to fill in, in a real emergency, to perform a ceremony - or at least that was the way it was 50 years ago.

This writer wanted no part in performing such a ceremony. And, after such a ceremony, on board a crowded troop ship, where could the bride and groom live?

So the captain forbade any ceremony, and the would be bride and groom crossed the Atlantic, to the port of New York, just holding each other's hand.

The day the Junior's took over

by Capt. Larz Neilson

The Rotary Club of Wilmington has for many years had a Junior Rotary organization of sorts, during the school year. Every Wednesday at the Rotary meeting in the Masonic Hall two Junior Rotarians from Wilmington High School are present to eat with their Senior Rotarians, and, in some instances, exchange jokes. Some Juniors, it must be said, keep to themselves and have nothing to say. (Junior Rotarians cannot be fined.)

A few years ago the world Rotary organization recognized the fact that there are ladies in business. Since then there have been ladies in Rotary.

And since that time the Junior Rotarians of Wilmington have come in two sexes. A young lady and a young man each week get a free dinner.

In the last meeting in May North Wilmington's Bobby Doucette held Senior Steve Marchillo aside, and rehearsed him in the (almost) fine art of Rotary singing. The reason appeared at the next meeting, on June 6.

Six Junior Rotarians appeared, and took over the head table. The Rotary officials sat with their fellow members at the common tables.

It was a well conducted meeting. The finemaster, it must be reported, managed to extract a fine from every Senior Rotarian.

This gift is a reminder that their job is very special and a job that some never get to experience. Those who would like to receive this gift, are asked to call 658-1588 and leave their name and mailing address and we will happily sent the gift.

We would like to invite all to the Bible study Wednesday nights from 7 to 9.

REPLACEMENT COST COVERAGE

QUESTION: Would you explain the REPLACEMENT COST feature in a homeowners insurance policy?

ANSWER: The contract reads that in the event of an insured loss, full replacement cost of the home would be paid for, if the amount of insurance carried on your home is 80% or more of the replacement cost at the time of the loss.

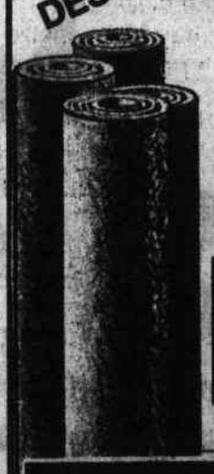

In other words, no depreciation would be taken whether it be a complete or partial loss. The full cost of replacement would be paid.

Once the replacement cost is determined, an inflation guard endorsement can be added to help keep up with inflation.

REPLACEMENT COST coverage will pay you the full amount of the loss regardless of depreciation.

Library seeks pages

Job openings

The library will have several openings for pages in the coming months, at least one to start in July. Applications from interested students at least 14 years of age are encouraged for these year round positions. A page's primary responsibility is to shelve books and other materials and to keep them in order. Computer skills are helpful, and accuracy, maturity and reliability are required.

During the year pages must be available for approximately 10 hours per week. Schedules include one or more afternoons and Saturday assignments as well as a reasonable amount of time during school vacation weeks and during the summer. Flexibility for varied scheduling is important. Application forms are available at the library, for more information, contact Mrs. Rueter at 658-2967

Summer reading program

Registration for the traditional summer reading program for children will begin June 24 and continue throughout the summer. Children's Services Librarian Eileen Broderick has planned a summer sparking with fun for those who go to the library and take part in all the activities offered.

Assistant Children's Librarian Susan MacDonald is concentrating her time and energy decorating the room in line with this year's theme of imagination. It is her imagination and artistic talents which have over the years provided the inspired settings for these popular summer programs.

Children's Room Assistant Karen Whitfield, library pages and volunteers are all contributing to the big job of getting ready for the annual program. It won't be long now before children can drop in and "Catch the Summer Spark."

Summer hours

Summer hours will begin soon. Beginning Saturday June 22 until the first Saturday after Labor Day, the library will be closed Saturdays for the summer. Other summer dates to remember when planning visits to the library are Tuesday, July 2 when the library will close at 5 p.m. and Thursday July 4 when the library will be closed all day.

• Abundant Life

After Fellowship Hall was torn down last week, a construction crew began removing the stone foundation, after which it will begin pouring the new one. Grimley said he hopes the new wing will be in place in time for the start of classes in September.

"We are hoping for mid-September," he said. "We need some good weather and other odds and ends to fall into place for that to happen. But that's our ideal."

Grimley said that each class at Abundant Life studies the Bible in addition to reading, writing and arithmetic, the latter three under the authority of the Wilmington School Committee. He said that Abundant Life students come from Wilmington and 20 other communities and from "virtually every other denomination," adding that "most are not from the [Baptist] church even."

This diversity and a maximum class ration of one teacher to every 20 students help the school successfully prepare students for enrollment in public high schools after graduation.

"Kids who have graduated and gone on to public schools have fit in very well," Grimley said.

• Commission

it's gone forever," Harris said. "Do we have a say? No. Would it have been a courtesy? Absolutely. ... Basically we rely on the goodwill of the people of the Town Hall to let us know what's happening - it didn't happen."

And though it is gone, Harris and the commission point no real blame at either the Baptist Church or Building Inspector Dan Paret, who issues permits for building demolitions. She said essentially that the church owned the building and the property and could do whatever it wanted and that Paret is a busy man who is not required to inform the commission.

Paret agreed.

"The town has no policy of notifying anyone," Paret said. "If they want that courtesy what they need to do is have a policy instituted."

The commission would like to see a town by-law change that would require that the commission be made aware of future such proposed changes. Harris says a lack of communication produced the disappointment the commission is now experiencing.

Paret said that is the real shame because if at any time in the more than one year he has been building inspector if anyone from the commission had approached him and asked him for a courtesy call in the event something like this happened, he would have been glad to do so.

But Paret also made it clear that he can only act within his authority, and though he said he agrees with Harris that old buildings should be preserved, he had no authority to act other than how he did.

For his part, church pastor Rev. Ronald Grimley said he checked with two contractors the church was considering for the job as to whether or not the building was of historical significance. Both reported back it was not, he said.

"We went through the proper approval process," Grimley stated. "Neither the demolition permit nor the building permit would have been issued by the town if the town felt the building had any historical significance."

Paret said his job in issuing demolition permits does not entail a view of potential historical significance but that all requirments were met by the church.

"The person that removed that building met all those requirements," he said.

According to a form filed with the Massachusetts Historical Commission by the Wilmington Historical Commission in 1977, the house was built in the 1890's as a residence.

The house was later occupied by Dr. Miriam Hosmer, who practiced medicine there after World War II. She sold the property to the Baptist Church sometime around 1960 and it was used for services until the present structure was built a decade later.

Maureen Gittzus was just a kid (61) when her husband, Leo became a charter member of the Wilmington Kiwanis Club. Monday the Kiwanis Club celebrated its 29th birthday, and Maureen's 90th birthday.

Leo was the featured speaker of the evening, giving a slide show of his recent trip to Ellis Island, with his unique perspective, being a retired teacher he often finds points that others miss.

Other business of the evening included inducting three new members: Jim Mahoney, Doug Cheney and Anne Mahoney.

Wilmington senior topics

Senior meals

The senior meals program will stop on June 19 and resume on July 1. During the summer months senior meals at the high school will be served at 11:30 a.m.

Get out of the house

As the weather becomes more pleasant seniors should get out of the house, go to the air conditioned center where one can meet other seniors, explore new interests, then go to the lunch site for a nutritious lunch. These noon lunches supply one third of the recommended daily dietary allowances. A typical meal includes fruit, soup, baked chicken or other meat or fish, vegetable, potatoes, desserts, bread, milk and coffee. If you do not want the larger meal you can have a light lunch of fruit, soup, sandwich, dessert, coffee or milk.

Any town resident 60 years or older can receive a meal at the lunch site. If confined to the home by illness or disability, a meal can be delivered by calling the Senior center a day before or a week before for the following week. Meals are served and delivered Monday through Friday except on holidays or when schools are closed during the school year for weekly vacations or when closed due to storms. Wilmington's senior meal program is one of a very few towns that are not involved with their area agencies meal program. Our meals are prepared by school nutritionist Ann Quinn. We have kept the meals at $1.00 a meal.

At our meal sites you can receive a full course meal for $1.00. All we ask from you is that you call the center to order a meal the day before or for the following week, the Friday before. If you have to cancel, please let us know. Every morning we call the school with the number of meals to be delivered to the homebound and those to be served at the lunch site.

Programs and classes

This week's programs and classes will be on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Aerobic exercise classes from 10 to 11 a.m. At 1 p.m. on Monday George Webster's art class begins.

Tuesday, June 18 the commissioners will hold their monthly meeting in the function room. At this meeting the chairman and vice chairman to serve the seniors for the next fiscal year will be voted into office. As the commissioners start a new year, they hope to see more seniors taking some interest in the meetings. Any senior can make suggestions from the floor, for the commissioners to act on. The senior cannot vote on it. The commissioners are the only seniors who can vote on any action. The meeting lasts an hour or less.

Wednesday, June 19 at 9 a.m. Podiatrist Dr. Mullin will be at the center to treat ailments of the feet. Also starting at 9 a.m. is the craft and ceramics class.

On Thursday, June 20, starting at 9 a.m., the sewing, knitting and crocheting class and the shop class will be held. At 1:30 p.m. town nurse Ann Fitzgerald will be checking blood pressures and giving diabetics tests and at 1 p.m. the dance class with all types of dances from fox trots to line dances are taught by Marguerite Cavanaugh.

Friday, June 21, bingo starts at 1 p.m. This program is one that we never have to worry about senior participation; it is very popular.

We do not stop any of the programs or classes during the summer months. As the center is air conditioned throughout. Seniors can come and join in on any program or class whenever the weather becomes unbearable. All classes are free to Wilmington seniors. The shop class will be continued through the summer, making as they did last year, small toys for the Christmas Fair. If you have never made anything out of wood, we have several men willing to help you. It is a great hobby that will keep you busy at home also.

Financial abuse

We are seeing more and more financial abuse of our elders. Not only are we reporting cases to the attorney general's office, but throughout the state,cases are being reported. As a result of our complaints Governor Weld's Secretary of Elder Affairs Frank Ollivierre, Attorney General's Office of Consumer Affairs, and the Division of Banks are working together on a play which will protect elders from financial abuse by unscrupulous individuals. Bank tellers will be trained to spot signs that a senior may be a victim of a financial fraud scheme. They will learn to watch an elder accompanied by a young person, who does all the talking for the elder, making an unusually large withdrawal from the elder's account who looks sad or frightened; of if the young persons shows signs of other suspicious actions. The bank official will notify the authorities. Any senior who feels they have been financially exploited should call the senior citizen center and ask for the director.

A Happy Fathers Day to all our fathers!

Edie Cunningham

Softball team wins dramatic game, then loses to a tough Dracut team

by James Pote

It played out as if it were already scripted before Saturday's match-up. The team rallied to win three state tournament games with one of their better all-around players in shortstop Leanne Harris out injured. One of those wins was a 1-0 thriller in which Nicole Dussault scored on an error in the bottom of the eighth inning, and the third chapter of the book had the number two starter holding down its opponents to a .143 batting average, which included giving up just one run in 15 innings.

It seemed like the fairy tale they went through in 1993 and 1994 when they were state champions, was about to happen all over again.

But the 1996 team was very similar to those teams: the entire team contributed the winning ways with determination, heart, spunk, non-stop effort, focus, smart heads-up play and most of all they had fun, which is why they have had an amazing 75-19 record over the past four years.

And in the final innings of the Division II North Sectional Final game against Dracut on Saturday, the Wilmington High School softball team was still laughing and having fun despite being eliminated 9-2 in a wet afternoon game at Aprile Field in Wilmington.

Whether they win or lose twenty games every year, there is only one way this well respected program can be described: first class all-around (or is that three up, three down, three all-around?).

"I just got through telling the kids that before the season started I never thought we would have got this far in the tournament," said head coach Paul Lyman. "I knew we would do well because we were not in a great league, but you can't take anything away from this team. They had a great season.

"Today the kids were very nervous and I think that had a little bit to do with the outcome. But Dracut was the better team today. And you can't take anything away from them. They deserve it," Lyman said.

Through both teams' three state tournament wins, Wilmington outscored Lynn Classical, Saugus and Arlington Catholic, 9-2, while Dracut outscored Jeremiah Burke, Melrose and Arlington, 57-2. Something had to give on Saturday.

Lyman had a very tough decision to make before the game. Harris only played one inning of state tournament ball this year because of a sprained ankle. She was given the okay to play, and Lyman had to decide where to play the all-conference star.

The Wilmington High School softball team celebrated after their dramatic 1-0 win over Arlington Catholic last week. However, the team lost on Saturday to eliminate them from any further play. Wilmington native Mike Walsh will be heading to Atlanta on Friday to take part in the Olympic Trials in the Discus.

Wilmington native is going to Atlanta

by James Pote

While Wilmington native John Engdahl carries the Olympic torch this weekend, another Wilmington resident will take part in the Olympics this weekend.

Mike Walsh, 25, will be flying to Atlanta this Friday to take part in the U.S. Olympic track and field trials in the discus. If he finishes in the top three out of 24 invited participants, he will then will find himself a part of the most successful track and field team in Olympic history - Team USA.

Right now Walsh ranks 13th in the entire country in the discus. He qualified for the trials when he heaved the disc 200 feet. Walsh admitted that he would love to make the team this year, but he thinks he will have a better shot in the year 2000.

"All I want to do is improve from last year when I finished ninth [in the USA Championship Meet held in Sacramento]," said the Malden Catholic and Bentley College graduate.

"I'm not going down there with the thought that I have to make the team. If I do that's great. As long as I finish higher than ninth place I will be happy - I'm just happy to be a part of it," Walsh continued.

Walsh, whose sister Suzy set many records too in track and field as a runner at Bentley, said that when he finished ninth in Sacramento, he beat several olympians. After that the track and field magazine came out and Walsh wasn't in the top ten because it said he beat several guys who just had bad days. But Walsh said he can do something better than some of the olympians can.

"I haven't made drastic improvements [since setting a record at Bentley College throwing 183 feet] but I'm consistent. Most of the times guys throw 205 feet one throw and then 185 the next. But I'm pretty consistent - I throw about 195 feet every time," Walsh said.

Walsh said a lot of factors go into the way one throws the discus.

"The weather is a big factor - especially the wind. I haven't had the wind with me much this year like the people in California have had."

Walsh will be flying down to Atlanta on Friday for the preliminaries on Sunday. Each of the 24 participants has three tries and the best throw will be taken from there. And the 12 best will compete for the finals on Monday. Walsh said he expects to be among those 12 on Monday and from there anything can happen.

"I would settle for a sixth place - I'm hoping to make the finals but that's not my only goal. If you finish fourth or fifth you get to be a part of a United States-Great Britian dual meet in early August and I would be happy to be a part of that," Walsh said.

Walsh said he qualified for the trials in a USA track and field development meet at Northeastern University when he threw for 200 feet - the qualifying mark is 198.5.

"I think I have a better chance to make it in 2000. I think I still have the potential to throw it a lot farther so that's why I think I have a better chance then. All I'm looking for this weekend is to improve - and I'll be happy with that," Walsh said.

Cuties coming to Wilmington

Lyman went with the same line-up he wrote down the past two games with Landers on the mound and Amy Surran, the number one starter, at first with Melissa Mather, the normal first baseman, playing second and Catherine Townsend, the regular second baseman, playing shortstop. But he made one change - putting Harris as the designated hitter batting in her normal number three spot.

Landers pitched two fantastic games against Saugus and Arlington Catholic. And with this line-up the defense was more experienced - with his other option of putting freshman Melissa Wolfe, who appears to have a very bright future at second base. But if the team was that nervous, imagine how jittery a freshman would have felt like with one inning of varsity experience under her belt in a North Sectional final game?

Landers did what she had done all season long - throw strikes. Her first five pitches were strikes, and 40 of her first 50 pitches were also strikes. But Dracut continued their impressive attack with the bats with eleven hits and seven runs off Landers in 3.1 innings. Some of those hits would have been caught in the regular season, but with some of the players so nervous those hits found ways to fall in.

Dracut scored one run in the first inning. After a groundout to Townsend at first to open the game, the next batter, Courtney Desrosiers, hit a ground ball that went through the legs of third baseman Nicole Dussault - that was the first error the gold glover has made in over two years. After two infield hits, the bases were juiced for Katie Hebert, who grounded out to Townsend to bring in the first run of the game.

Wilmington had the tough task of facing a premier and dominating pitcher in Kristen Ladebouche. She is the younger sister of Carrie who is pitching at Merrimack College and Kristen is a fireballer just like her sister throwing her fastball in the low 60's and her change-up in the high 40's.

This game clearly showed that being in the Cape Ann League hurt the Wildcats. In the Merrimack Valley Conference, not only would Wilmington have faced Ladebouche and Dracut twice, but they would have faced many pitchers that were somewhat the caliber of pitching that they saw from Ladebouche. Instead, in the Cape Ann League, they saw just one pitcher (perhaps two) Amesbury's Nikki Savastano, who was like a MVC pitcher - the rest was like facing batting practice.

Anyway, Ladebouche struck out five of the first six Wilmington batters she faced (Harris reached base on an error) and 12 in all. Wilmington didn't get a hit until the fourth inning, when switch hitting center fielder Julie Gillis smacked one up the middle from her original, yet unfamiliar, right side.

Dracut was leading 1-0 after the first inning and they struck for four more in the second which opened the game wide-open.

After a lead-off double by the seventh batter in the order Seline Pinet which went right under the glove of right fielder Melissa Palermo, who would have made a tremendous catch if she caught it, Wilmington got the next two batters out. The top of the order came up and after three consecutive singles, Ladebouche helped her own cause by smacking a two-run double in the right-center gap to make it 5-0 after an inning-and-a-half.

Wilmington went down in order in the second and third innings and after Gillis' hit in the fourth, Ladebouche set down the next three batters. Dracut struck for two more runs in the fifth inning to make it 7-0 on two RBI singles. Lyman lifted Landers for Surran after one out in the fourth - and without Landers, this team would have never have been where they were on Saturday. She had a brilliant season to say the least.

"I am amazed at what Kelly has done this season," Lyman said of the senior tri-captain at the annual WHS Athletic Awards held on Thursday night at WHS. "I always kid her saying that she isn't an athlete, but I think she has proven me wrong. I am so amazed at what she has done - I just can't get over it."

Surran finished the game giving up two runs (one earned) on two hits and a walk. Landers with the loss finished the season at 8-2 overall, while, Surran was 10-2.

Wilmington did get on the board in the sixth inning when it was 7-0. After an out, Townsend singled. Two batters and two outs later, Harris came hobbling up to the plate and she stroked a double in the gap to score Townsend - Harris landed on third on the throw home. Harris showed just what she is all about - a great athlete desperately wanting to play and win with a heroic effort in the game.

Freshman Emily King pinch ran for Harris and she scored on a base hit from Lisa Southmayd. But that was it for the offense for Wilmington as the game ended with a 9-2 defeat to end a terrific season at 20-4 overall.

Last Wednesday night, the softball team beat Arlington Catholic in one of the better games in a long time. Landers and Carly Ronan battled it out in a fantastic pitchers duel with both pitchers tossing seven scoreless innings to send the game into extra innings.

Landers was masterful, pitching back-to-back wins on consecutive days, hitting the corners and mixing in a deadly change-up. She went eight innings, giving up just three hits and one walk while striking out five. She retired eight of the first nine batters she faced (a walk) and then she gave up her first base hit in the third inning to Stephanie Martin.

But, while Martin was on first, second baseman Melissa Mather took a step to her right, a second before the first pitch came in - that yielded dividends as Mather tagged out Martin on a great throw from Southmayd on the attempted steal.

Thereafter, Landers retired the next 12 batters, before showing signs of fatigue in the eighth when she gave up two hits but got out of the jam when Melissa Palermo alertly threw the ball to shortstop Catherine Townsend, who nailed Amy Mattuchino, who took a wide turn around the base.

Wilmington got two runners on through the first two innings, but both of them were caught stealing by Wilmington native Cara Chaney. Chaney got Southmayd in a pickle in the first inning on a delayed steal and then she nailed Palermo in the third at second base on a steal attempt after Palermo successfully reached first on a beautiful slap hit past the first baseman.

Ronan was also cruising along with her unique delivery - sort of like a sling shot turning her hips to the third baseman. Perhaps that caught the Wilmington batters off guard as they had just two hits in the game - one the slapper by Palermo and another infield hit by Mather in the seventh.

Nicole Dussault led off the eighth inning with a walk. Jill Lojek sacrificed Dussault to second on a beauty. Karen MacArthur pinch hit for Palermo and she reached first on an error that sent Dussault to third; MacArthur took second on the play. Jodi MacKenzie batted for Landers and she battled hard, fouling off two strikes in a good at-bat, but struck out.

With two outs and two on, Catherine Townsend hit a chopper down to shortstop Stacey Young, who had a terrific game showing off excellent range and a funny hop allowed Dussault to score and Wilmington to celebrate.

"You surely hate to see a game end like that because [Young] played a great, great game," Lyman said after the game. "We scouted them earlier in the year and she wasn't playing because of an injury - and boy, did she make a difference in this game."

College Round-up

Chris Snow a 1994 graduate of Tewksbury High School and Nicole Ouelette a 1993 graduate of Wilmington High School, have both just completed fine seasons in baseball and softball respectively for Bates College in Lewiston, Maine.

Snow a baseball and football stand-out at Tewksbury, was the team's number one pitcher as he finished the 9-14 team season with a 3-5 record and an impressive 3.88 E.R.A. Snow threw 55.2 innings, giving up 42 hits, while walking 26 and striking out 48.

Ouelette part of two different championship softball teams in two different divisions as she was an outfielder for Bishop Fenwick in their state title in 1992 and then she was a part of Wilmington's title in 1993. At Bates, Ouelette also captained the field hockey team.

As for her 1996 softball season, the team struggled at a 4-18 record, but Ouelette didn't as she was batting .296 through the first ten games of the season, but she injured her knee which kept her out of anymore action.

The Bobcats head coach Sherry Deschaine said, "Losing Nicole took something out of us both on the field and mentally as well. We certainly missed her bat, but we knew she would be reliable in the field. Nicole always gives it her best, and I think seeing her on the bench affected our team mentally."

John O'Reilly, a 1993 Wilmington High School graduate, is gearing up for his final season as the number one quarterback for the Central Connecticut State University football team. The team had a 2-8 record last year, but they have ten of its eleven offensive players returning including the strong-armed O'Reilly.

Last year, O'Reilly threw for over 1,300 yards, while rushing for another 122. He threw seven touchdowns in ten games for the Division I school.

Wilmington native Matt McManus (class of 1992) recently received his third letter as a junior pitcher for the Northeastern University baseball team. The announcement came from 11th year head coach Neil McPhee.

McManus (2-2, 6.75) established himself as one of the up and coming stars in the North Atlantic Conference this season as the fourth starter on a staff replete with pro prospects. The 5'10", 175 pound right hander made his way into eight games, including six starts, and on more than one occasion hinted at brilliance.

He was almost perfect in a two hit, complete game, 1-0 blanking of Maine that earned him NAC Pitcher of the Week honors for April 1-7, and was overpowering again when he allowed just three hits in going the distance for a 6-1 win over Vermont two weeks later.Perhaps most noteworthy about these victories is that both came in crucial conference matchups in a season when the Huskies were fighting to stay in the playoff hunt.

McManus is participating in the University's lauded cooperative education program and is slated to graduate with the Class of 1997.

Pote's Awards

by James Pote

The end of another sports season came to an end this past week and that only means it times for infamous "Pote's Awards". Here are the boys and girls winners fro the 1996 Spring season in Wilmington. Since I went with the boys first during the winter time, I will start this seasons winners off with the girls. Here goes:

Team MVP -- This was a very difficult choice, but junior Lisa Southmayd from the softball team is my choice. Southmayd had a tremendous season as she was named an all-star, an all-conference selection, the Co-M.V.P of the Cape Ann League as well as a Boston Globe All-Scholastic throughout a season in which she batted well over .500 and she threw out many runners and saved many incoming runs with her very impressive catching skills.

Most Improved Player(s) from 1995 -- I couldn't decide on this one, so it became a tie breaker between junior Julie Gillis of the softball team and sophomore Sarah McMahan of the girls tennis team. Gillis was a mainstay as a center fielder for the team - she brought a very good glove with her throughout the entire season. She is very quick which helped her both with the glove and the bat. She batted in the number two hole pretty much all season long and she was a speedy - bunt/slap switch hitter who finished up one terrific year in three different sports. McMahan, on the other hand, really stepped up to play outstanding tennis as the team's number one singles player. She still has two more years left and her name will be mentioned a lot in the future.

Most Improved from Start of Season-- This was the easiest choice from both the boys and the girls selections - senior Kelly Landers of the softball team. Landers a solid pitcher last year that had to change her entire delivery before this year's season started, became a great pitcher after pitching more and more. She finished the season at 8-2 overall which included two huge one-run victories in the state tournament against Saugus and Arlington Catholic on consecutive days in which she only gave up one run in 15 innings.

Freshman Award--OK I lied. This is the easiest choice I have ever made. Laura Winn of the Track and Field team not only performs like a junior or senior, but she works like one and acts like one on the field. You will also here her name being mentioned a lot in the future also.

No One Works Harder Than-- This is a new category in which I hope not to offend any of the student-athletes. They all work very, very hard and these several female athletes just seem to stand-out more than the others. In alphabetical order, I believe senior Nicole Dussault, junior Julie Gillis and freshman Laura Winn are the three hardest working female athletes in the school.

Boys Winners:

Team MVP -- This was a very difficult choice, but senior Kevin Kacumburas from the Track and Field Team, is my choice. Without the versatile athlete in the running events and some of the field events including the pole vault, the team would have been blown away.

Most Improved Player(s) from 1995 -- This was a very obvious choice as junior Eric Clancy of the baseball team is this winner. Clancy dramatically improved with his bat and most espcially with glove showing off good range.

Most Improved from Start of Season-- This one I would say goes to junior center fielder Eric McKenna of the baseball team. He always could field as he continued to make some sensational catches, but he has made great strides of improving his game with the bat as he was mostly known for hitting a grand slam during the season.

Freshman Award--Another easy choice: Peter Grasso of the baseball team. Since I have mentioned a few times during the season what soft hands he has and how he played very well at both shortstop and second base in limited varsity action, I decided not to harp on those things - but one thing I will say is this kid is going to be one heckuva player.

Unexpected Stars-- Tom Perreault and Keith McLaren of the Boys Tennis Team made this choice easy as they had another great season. Last year they were partners as the number one doubles tandem and this year they were the number two and three singles players, respectively.

No One Works Harder Than-- Again same as the girls, every athlete works hard but I believe seniors Greg Young, Kevin Kacumburas of the Track and Field team and Danny King of the Tennis Team.

Wilmington LIttle League action

Major League
Yankees 7 White Sox 1

Timmy Hogg pitched two strong innings in his first game as pitcher for the (sponsored Rocco's Restaurant) Yankees in Wilmington Major League Baseball play this past week.

The Yankees defeated the (Reading Trophy) White Sox 7-1, capturing its 12th win of the season.

The Yankees opened the game with Craig Osgood pitching the first two innings, allowing one run on two hits, no walks, and two strikeouts. Tim Hogg followed Osgood on the mound pitching two innings of shutout ball, while allowing no hits, no walks, and getting two strikeouts. David Rappoli finished the game, striking out four, while giving up no runs, no walks and no hits.

Mark Kranyansky made a nice catch in right field, while Kyle Burns turned another double play as Rappoli struck out the batter and Burns nailed the runner attempting to steal second. The Yankees were a little sloppy on the field as they did make four errors, which was unusual for a team that has played solid on the field all year.

The big hitters for the Yankees were again the first three batters, with each getting two hits. Craig Osgood had two singles, Kyle Burns had a double and a single with two RBI's, Dave Rappoli had a triple and a single with one RBI, Mark Kranysansky had an rbi single, along with Pat Taylor and Pranav Vaidya also singling.

The White Sox pitched Brad Lawrenson all the way. He struck out 12, walked three, while yielding nine hits and seven runs. The White Sox, who did put the ball in play against the Yankees, managed to get two first inning hits.

Waisnor singled to lead off the bottom of the first, and Lawrenson doubled in the first. Both Hoff and MacDonald were robbed of hits on good defensive plays by the Yankees. Marco Dusant made a phenomenal catch in left field.

Yankees 12 Red Sox 3

The Rocco's sponsored Yankees moved a step closer to clinching first place as they won their 11th game in a row against the Red Sox 12-3. The Yankees broke the game open in the bottom half of the third when they scored six runs.

The six runs were all scored after two outs. They sent everyone to the plate that inning. They added two more runs in each of the fourth and fifth innings. In the fourth inning, David Rappoli doubled driving in the two runs and in the fifth inning, Pat Graham got a hold of a pitch and drove it out of the park for a two run homer.

Yankees started Craig Osgood, who pitched the first three innings allowing no runs, no hits, two walks and striking out five. Kyle Burns relieved Osgood in the fourth. After getting the first two batters out, an error followed by two walks and double started to mount a Red Sox come back. Under 10-C soccer team champions

Memorial Day weekend turned into something very memorable for the Wilmington Under 10-Traveling Soccer Team which is coached by Charlie Cochran and Dick MacPherson.

They entered their first ever tournament - the annual Memorial Day Tournament sponsored by the Billerica Youth Soccer Association.

Wilmington played Westford first and then Billerica next. They won both games by denying the other teams any goals or even any shots on goal! Wilmington goalies John Cuoco and Mike Cullen were bored to say the least as no one could get past the intimidating defensive line of Wilmington.

Wilmington got outstanding offense with great passing and team work which created the two wins. By the start of the third game, which was played against Chelmsford, the Cats defense was dubbed "The Wall" led by Steven Ciano, Greg Phillips, Charlie Lojek, and Mike MacPherson.

And the offense was called tenacious driven by Tony Ruggiero, Jimmy DaSilva, Derek Kucinski, Greg Irving and Chad Cochran and for this tournament requiring extra player Eric Raposo.

Wilmington continued their hot play with two more wins the next day against Chelmsford and Billerica which kept the Wilmington boys kept them in the tournament.

The final day proved to be as exciting as any World Cup Soccer Game. The scheduled game against Westford was not to be. After watching our team play they decided to forfeit. So a stronger, second Billerica team was sent in. This close game ended with a victory for Wilmington!

With the win over Billerica Wilmington made it to the finals. Concord-Carlisle proved to be a worthy opponent with a tie score game resulting in double overtime (2-5 minute sudden death periods). Still no goals scored! Finally a shoot out.

The pressure was really on the goalies now! Cuoco was ready for anything and he provided to keep the opponents at bay, while teammates Raposo and Cochran scored in the shoot-out to allow Wilmington to take home the winning trophy.

This tremendous team went on to a victorious season (9-1) which enters them in the Middlesex League Commissioner's Cup.

Supporters of the team wish the come from behind team the greatest success for this final season challenge.

Girls Under 10D

The Wilmington Girls Under 10D continued to improve their record with a 7-0 win against Waltham. Kristen Frizol had two goals and one assist to lead the Wilmington squad. Other goals were scored by Catherine Chin, Erica Frizol, Stephanie Ramsdell, Kerri Proer and Erin Cahill. Meghan Flynn and Erin Cahill completely blanked Waltham with thier great goaltending.

On May 11, the Wilmington Girls Under 10D squad was visited by North Reading in a good game that was closely played. Wilmington ended up with the 1-0 win. Katherine Chine tallied the lone goal with an assist from Kelly Komenchuk. Kristen Frizol had several shots on goal but was thwarted by a good North Reading goal keeper.

Amber Warnick and Krystina DaSilva kept North Reading on its heels by constantly forcing the play into their opponents end. Kerri Porter and Erin Cahill were perfect in goal with each making several nice saves. Meghan Flynn and Krystina Smith showed outstanding footwork and passing.

Girls Under 10C team

The Wilmington girls U10C team hosted the division leading team from Westford. In the first half, Westford scored first off a deflection of a corner kick in front of the net. Wilmington answered with a goal from Jesica Alosco who made a fantastic rush down the left half fo the field. This was the first of her two goals in the half. The first half ended with Westford scoring two more times making the score 3-2 in favor of Westford.

In the second half, the Wilmington girls were determined to hold Westford scoreless. The defensive team of Lisa Martinello, Erin Dorrance, Marjorie Taylor, Bridget Kent and keeper Katie Martell was able to do just that by showing great passing and teamwork. On the offensive side of the ball, a great pass by Jessica Alosco to Amanda Martineillo led to the tying goal. The game ended in a 3-3 tie.

Twelve days later, Wilmington hosted Burlington on a rain soaked Shawsheen Field. Wilmington dominated the gem from start to finish. Wilmington goals were scored by Jessica Alosci, Kelly Crosby and bridget Kent, accounting for six goals. Passing combinations of Jackie Robarge and Melissa Marques kept Burlington in its own end. Defensive support was led by Elyse Gambardella and Julie Martell. The game ended with Wilmington winning 6-2.

Boys under 12A

Wilmington Boys Under 12 A traveled to play back-to-back games against Winchester and North Reading, always two tough opponents in the Middlesex Youth Soccer League. The game against Wincheser was hard fought with many scoring opportunities by forward Jared Costantino and Richie Lee broken up by the Winchester sweeper. The Wilmington squad fought hard to maintain the score 1-0 for Winchester at half time.

The second half Wilmington continued to pressure with well placed kicks from Mark Krasnyanski and David Rappoli. Keith Frongillo was tremendous as sweeper with exceptional play by fullback Brandon Courtois, Matthew Goldblat and Andrew Holland. Unfortunately heat, exhaustion and Winchester overpowered the team and they lost 6-0.

The following afternoon Wilmington traveled to North Reading. This was a great match of teamwork in which Wilmington dominated for most of the first half and much of the second. Wilmington scored first on a breakaway by Alfredo Badolato giving the Wilmington boys a 1-0 lead. The midfield play was dominated by Craig Osgood, Tommy Doyle, David Rappoli and Patrick O'Shea. North Reading was able to tie the first half with less than two minutes left.

In the second half, Wilmington came out with more aggressive attacks on net. Robert Schell scored off a direct kick from Mark Krasnyanski giving the squad a 2-1 lead. Richie Lee scored on a breakaway pass from Danny O'Connell 10 minues into the second half giving a 3-1 lead. The squad tried to keep up this intensity for the remainder of the game, but the North Reading squad was not out. They fought back hard and scored four unanswered goals to win the game 5-3.

Girls Under 14C

Despite compiling a fine record after eight games this season, the Girls Under 14C travel soccer team still needed two big efforts in order to make the post season Commissioner's Cup Tourney. But that's exactly what happened against Melrose and Westford and as a result the girls head to Woburn this weekend for tournament play.

At home on June 1 against first place and undefeated Melrose, the girls played an outstanding game and came away with a 1-1 tie. Melrose is the only team to defeat the Wilmington squad this season having beaten the girls 2-0 at Melrose on April 27. In the rematch played on a sunny, Shawsheen Saturday, both teams gave it their all in the blazing noon time heat.

The action was furious and each team had chances but were stymied by fine defensive work. With only five minutes remaining, Melrose broke free on a long run and after hitting the right post past the diving goal tender, Lauren Duffy, the resulting rebound was put into the net for a 1-0 Melrose lead.

Wilmington came right back and pushed the ball up the field trying to counter for the tying score. A cross field pass was taken by Diana Lee near the center of the field, outside the penalty area and Diana spotted Jessica Garbati alone to her left. Diana directed a neat pass to Jessica who drove a left footed shot past the Melrose goalie with two minutes remaining.

With one game left in the season the girls were still not assured of a tourney berth. Somerville was breathing down their necks and at least a tie was necessry in the final game at Westford. The previous Westford game was close with Wilmington having won 1-0 with a goal in the final minute. Complicating the scene was the fact that the game was played at 9 a.m. the morning after the eighth grade field trip to Washington DC. Five Wilmington players were unusually tired when they arrived at the field for the final regular season contest.

The game started slowly for the girls and Westford grabbed a 1-0 lead 15 minutes into the first half. The high grass slowed down the Wilmington passing attack but the girls adjusted well resorting to long, high passes and individual runs. At the 20 minute mark, Tara Scola made a great individual effort following a long run to the right of the net. Tara's hard shot was deflected off a Westford defender and slipped inside the right post. At this point everyone seemed to relax and Wilmington responded with two additioal goals within 10 minutes.

Jessica Garbati who along with Erin McDonough had been the major offensive force to this time with strong advances into the offensive zone took a hard crossing shot to the goal which was momentarily bobbled by the Westford netminder. Ever alert, center forward Kim Gillespie was right on the doorstep to fire there bound into the net. Soon afterward, Courtney Gilligan gave Wilmington some breathing room when she faked out a Westford defender and put a well placed shot high into the corner from 20-yards out.

The second half featured some fine individual play by Stefanie Sordillo, Charlotte Hauray, Jen McGowan and Kristin Pelletier. As the heat and humidity began to take its toll, Wilmington defensive players Lisa Dineen, Christina Downs and Deanna Burns turned away Westford's every chance. Late in the game Cheryl Kelly ran the ball the length of the field and fired a hard driving shot that deflected off the right post. Again Kim Gillespie was there to pocket the score.

Coach Jeanne Buck is very proud of the girls and their achievements to date. Balanced scoring, excellent halfback play, along with superb defense and goal keeping have led to the fine 6-1-3 record. Many girls have filled in at multiple positions and everyone has given their best for the team.

The team looks forward to the support of the Wilmington soccer community at this weekend's Commissioners' Cup Tournament an wishes all other Wilmington tourney teams good luck.

Under 10-C Boys Soccer

The Wilmington Soccer Under 10 Boys D Team closed out its regular season Saturday with an impressive 7-0 blanking of visiting Concord-Carlisle.

From the opening minute of the final whistle Wilmington (7-2-1) dominated in every aspect of a game that made Coach Bill Kent and Manager Lou Cavallaro proud.

Concord-Carlisle came out strong, playing an aggressive brand of ball, but Wilmington's effort was more than a match for the visitors.

Defensively Wilmington made it plain to Concord-Carlisle nothing would come easy.

The visitors' first opportunity on the attack was snuffed out when Derek Concannon made a brilliant slide tackle to thwart a breakaway. Moments later Raymond Gravallese single handedly broke up a two on one charge by Concord-Carlisle.

At the other end of the field, Kyle Patrie put the initial torch to the scoring lamp on a tremendous display of Wilmington play making. Tacking a great pass out of the defensive end from Gravallese, Timmy Kent streaked down the left wing leaving opponents in his wake. As he hit the top of the penalty area, Kent spied Patrie motoring to the right corner of the net and made a beautiful cross that Patrie deftly tapped past the keeper.

Only a sparkling job by the Concord-Carlisle keeper and some tough luck for Wilmington kept the score 1-0 at halftime. Scott Sferrazza, Dana Zanni and Sean Wilson swarmed the opponents defense but couldn't buy a goal. The visitors dodged a missile when Wilson's rocket-launched shot whizzed just over the crossbar.

Any lid Concord-Carlisle was keeping on its hosts' scoring was blown off in the second half. Right off the bat Wilmington unloaded a barrage at the oppsoing goal.

Patrie started things off again, taking a job pass from Gravallese then turning to boot the ball high into the net. Seconds later off the kickoff, Zanni sent a pass to left wing Eric Ollila who caught the keeper out of position and put a quick shot into the net for a 3-0 lead.

The Ollila-Zanni combo paid net dividends again on the same shift when Ollila deposited a chip pass from Zanni into a wide open goal. Taking the lead from their teammates, Patrie and Gravallese collaborated for a second time. Gravallese made a nice lead pass and Petrie put away the hat trick with along shot that bounded into the goal.

Concannon made the most of an opportunity after being tripped and launched his direct kick directly into the Concord-Carlisle net making it 6-0. Wilmington finished off its scoring via Ollila, Mike Cavallaro and Mark Giordano's offensive thrust. With Ollila and Cavallaro working the ball upfield, Giordano took a pass at the top of the box and blasted it over the keeper's head.

Despite the lopsided score, Wilmington's defensive was called on to make some spectacular plays. keeper Zack Ungavarsky kept his net empty in the first half and played solidly as a defender in the second half along with Cavallaro and Giordano.

Second half keeper Wilson made a pair of absolutely dazzling saves on a Concord-Carlisle breakaway late in the game. Holding his ground he made an initial stop with his legs and then batted away a rebound shot with his hand as he went down.

IT'S NOT THAT WE ARE NOSY

A good Realtor begins a professional relationship with buyers by asking a lot of questions about your personal and financial situation. The answers you give will enable the Realtor to have a clear idea of your housing needs and what you can afford. It is not only a waste of your time for a Realtor to show you gorgeous homes that you can't afford, but it can also be depressing to consider unrealistic possibilities. In order to do a great job for you, a Realtor needs to have some basic information about your income, debts and the amount of cash you have available for a purchase, as well as knowing something about your lifestyle. How large is your family? Where will you be working? Do you have school age children? Do you entertain at home? Are there any hobbies you want to accommodate? The Realtor who helps you find your new home will get to know you very well. It is very important that you feel comfortable with that person and are able to communicate openly.

Flag Day

As area communities prepare for Flag Day this coming Friday, June 14, this gorgeous German Shepherd "Sheila" who is owned by Mary Odlum of Marcia Road in Wilmington, got the jump on the activities while posing for her owner. In actuality this photo was submitted by Mary for a photo competition that was held by Middlesex East last year but the subject matter seemed so fitting for Flag Day that it was held until now. So take a second or two on Friday and turn your thoughts to your country and pay your respects to "Old Glory".

New design

They're healthy homes

By PAUL FEELY

It's been a long day at work. Irate customers have been harassing you since you showed up, and you haven't had a raise since the Celtics had a decent front court. All you can think of is how much better things will get once you battle the traffic and get home.

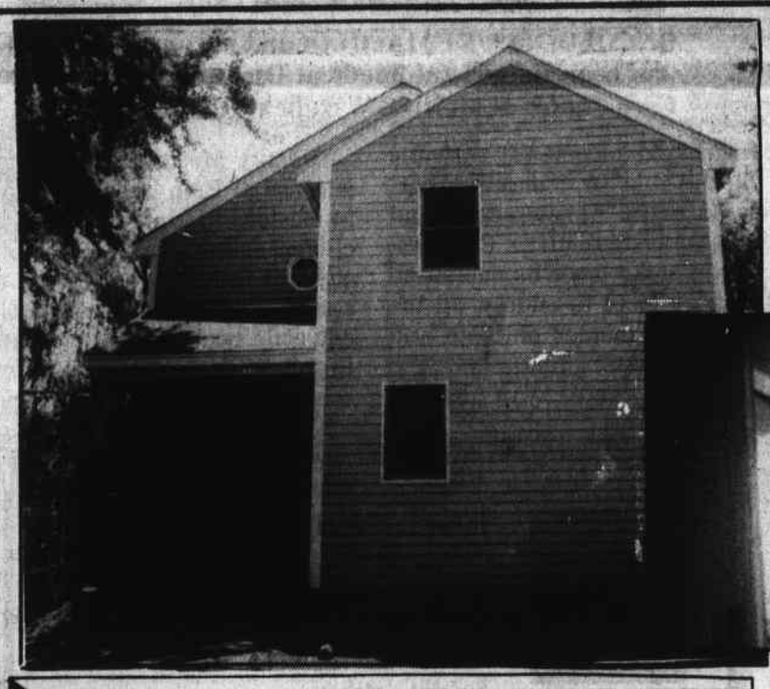

Think again.

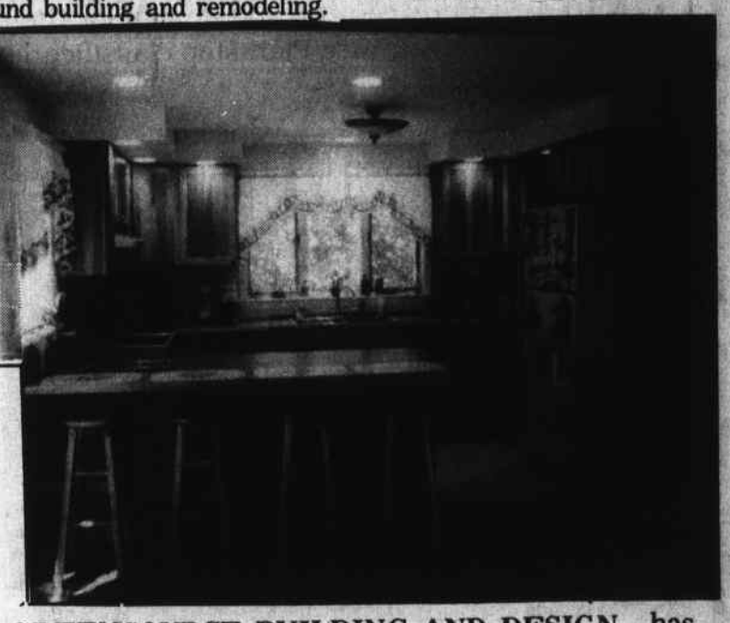

According to a report by the Massachusetts Special Legislative Commission on Indoor Air Quality, the air quality in many homes can be detrimental to your health. Indoor air can contain concentrations of toxins 10-100 times higher than what is permitted outside, and many materials currently used to build homes (such as paints, floor coverings, adhesives and presswood products) can contribute to that problem by releasing evaporative compounds into the air, such as formaldehyde.

A company in Woburn is trying to change all that. According to its brochure, Greensource Building and Design is "a unique construction company specializing in healthy, environmentally sound building and remodeling. Our goal is to protect the health of you and your family and minimize the impact of each construction project on the environment."

"People don't really think of health problems as being an

About The Towns
by Phyllis Nissen

Message line comment draws North Reading wrath

'In high dudgeon'

"The citizens of Reading are in high dudgeon after learning an adult video store, which also sells adult magazines and sexual paraphernalia, has located in their fair town," notes a "Townscript" in the "North Reading Transcript."

"Recently, the town's newspaper, the Daily 'Times-Chronicle,' asked readers to respond on the paper's 'message line' on how they felt about having this type of store move into town.

"Most of the messages recorded were reasonable, but caller number 424 chimed in with these comments: 'I don't think this will survive with Reading patrons. But look at our friends to the north. They'll probably shop there.'

"Well, now. We really don't blame the 'Chronicle' for printing this comment. After all, every town has its morons and they're entitled to use the telephone like everyone else.

"It does, however, leave your local editor in a quandary. Should he respond to this insulting drivel by pointing out that North Reading had the foresight to enact restrictive zoning bylaws keeping this kind of trash out of town? Or should he recall that a few years ago when North Reading chased a sex toy manufacturer out of town, the manufacturer promptly announced he was relocating to Reading?

"No, on final reflection your local editor will do none of that because it's not necessary. When you come right down to it, Reading has the porn shop, we don't, and no amount of condescending twaddle from south of the border will change that."

'Remaining positive'

"Tri-Community Bikeway organizers are remaining positive after learning their $1.6 million application for federal funding was 'not recommended' by the Metropolitan Area Planning Council (MAPC)," notes "Bike path funding on alternate list" in the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"However, the MAPC Enhancement Selection Committee did 'recognize the merit' of the 6.6-mile bike path which begins in Stoneham and travels through Woburn and into Winchester and its 'importance to the communities' and has placed the bikeway on an alternate list.

"'We received the good news that we are in the top third selected as possible recipients of money,' said Stoneham Land Use Committee Chairman Cameron Bain.

"Out of a field of 35 applicants, who applied to the Metropolitan Area Planning Council for federal funding, the Stoneham-Woburn-Winchester proposal was rated 12th. The project received high marks for 'project significance, implementation of goals for a regional and statewide plan, accessibility and enhancement of a transportation system.' It received a low mark for 'landscape beautification and historic preservation.'"

'What does it take?'

"Each year as part of the North Reading July 4 celebration, the town recognizes a person who has been nominated by fellow citizens as 'Person of the Year,' notes "Time to nominate the person of the year!" in the "North Reading Transcript."

"The committee is asking for nominations for this year's per-

New home design

issue when buying or building a home," said Greensource owner Michael Pais, a Reading resident. "But once they learn about these issues and hear the facts, they begin to think differently."

The company recently completed construction of an environmentally-friendly home on Bedford Street in Woburn, an achievement that was recognized nationally when the Environ-mental Protection Agency certified it as one of the first Energy Star Homes in the United States.

Pais' company's philosophy is, "To create a design and incorporate conservation products that will decrease the demand on non-renewable resources such as heating fuels, water and electricity; to provide proper ventilation and indoor air quality; to utilize natural ingredients, non-toxic, ecological and resource efficient building products that do not emit dangerous fumes and gasses; to use products containing recycled materials; to reduce or eliminate the use of products and materials with petrochemical and synthetic ingredients; and to use a system approach to building and understanding how each aspect of construction will integrate and affect the total project."

While most people probably don't give much thought to indoor air pollutants, they can cause many long-term health problems such as cancer, birth defects, immunological problems, nerve damage, reproductive difficulties and developmental problems. Short-term health problems include pneumonia, upper respiratory infections, allergic asthma, irritation of the eyes and skin, headaches and dizziness.

"Building your new home or remodeling your present structure is a big investment that goes beyond financial considerations," said Pais. "You must also invest in the health of your family and the future of our environment."

The project to build the new home in Woburn was quite an undertaking, the goal of which was to build a home that was livable to the homeowners and provide specific building materials, construction technology and design features to meet established objectives of energy efficiency, healthy indoor air quality and environmental sensitivity.

These are just some of the extra efforts that went into creating the home:

•Site orientation and the design of the house took advantage of surrounding deciduous trees, allowing winter solar gain to aid in heating demands and helping to block the strong summer sun from increasing cooling demands;

•Special electrical boxes with gaskets were utilized to seal the vapor retarder to the box, to prevent any drafts from occurring and moisture laden air from entering the wall cavity;

•An insulated basement slab to help with energy conservation and surface condensation;

•Zero clearance fireplaces with outside fresh air intake and doors with gaskets to prevent heated air from being used for combustion and being drawn up the chimney;

•And a certified air infiltration rate. The EPA requires a maximum leakage ratio of one square inch of area for every 100 square feet of exterior wall. This house tested to 1/2 square inch of area for every 100 square feet of exterior wall.

The couple that currently lives in the house reportedly had some allergy problems before the house was constructed, and have not had any problems since moving in.

The construction process itself was also environmentally sensitive, as workers recycled all the wood and cardboard waste at the jobsite, used 5,400 lbs. of recycled newspaper as cellulose insulation, using water conserving plumbing fixtures throughout the home, and using a wallboard product that contains more recycled newsprint than conventional wallboard, and also contains cellulose in its core from recycled newspaper.

Pais started this business after he was unable to find work with a degree in Exercise Science. He decided to take up construction as a profession, and his health-related knowledge steered him towards starting this type of company.

"As I learned about these issues, I became more and more interested," said Pais. "I became interested in the ways a home can affect individuals, and how it can also affect the planet."

Pais says that right now business is a bit slow, but that he hopes the more people become aware of the types of health problems that can be alleviated when a home is built this way, that more and more of them will decide to spend the extra money.

"As we dispel the myths about how expensive it is to do this type of construction, and show people the benefits they can receive, I think more people will choose this route," said Pais. "I've been teaching some classes on the subject, and the more people hear about sick building syndrome, the more they want to know about us. I've been getting calls from people across the country."

Breast Care Center which offers multidisciplinary consultations of oncology, radiology and surgery at the point of diagnosis. This provides MWH's breast cancer patients the information and education of all possible treatments as early in their care as possible.

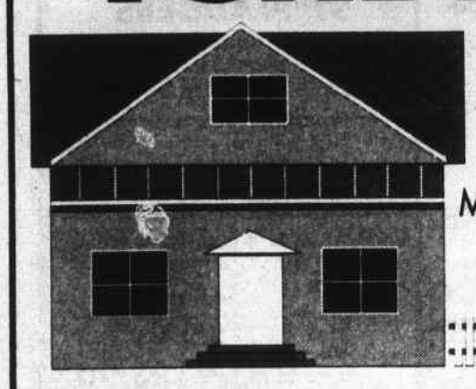

Also, because early detection is so critical to chances of survival, the Cancer Care Center is also engaged in an increased public education effort which includes quarterly lectures and/or screenings. A skin cancer screening held in May screened nearly 300 area residents for possible skin cancers.

According to Dr. Mann, all cancer treatments currently available are designed to be administered in a community hospital setting where the patient can receive treatment from experienced physicians and professional staff close to home. "MWH works closely with many Boston hospitals for referral and experimental treatments when needed, but the majority of cancer treatments available are based on standardized clinical studies conducted nationwide for a period of years. Our participation in those local and national research studies affords us access to the latest data, findings and protocols for treatment," explains Dr. Mann.

The Cancer Care Center of Melrose-Wakefield Hospital has been approved by the Commission on Cancer of the American College of Surgeons. MWH is one of a few hospitals in the country who have received this recognition.

Korean restauranteur becomes citizen

"It was the most exciting and the happiest day in my life," the new American citizen proudly proclaimed to his wife, Ji In, following a swearing-in ceremony at the Boston's historical Faneuil Hall, where 444 became new U.S. citizens.

Yon Sik Cho, 40, of Burlington, owner of the Korean Barbecue Restaurant in Burlington, was sworn in as a naturalized American citizen during the Memorial Day weekend ceremony.

U.S. District Court Judge George O'Toole presided over the swearing-in ceremony as he administered oaths to the candidates while their wives, loved ones and friends solemnly looked on.

Cho recently opened his own restaurant, New Jang Su B.B.Q. Restaurant on Cambridge Street, Burlington. Cho has developed his own specialty barbecue sauce to marinate ribs on a specially designed grill at the customer's table. Cho, who has been in the restaurant business since his arrival in the United States, has previously worked for various Korean restaurants in New York and New Jersey.

Registry offers Cape Cod plates

Massachusetts motorists now have one more option to be distinctive on the roadways. The new Cape Cod and Islands License plates are sailing into Registry of Motor Vehicles offices.

The multicolored, designer plates feature Eastham's Nauset Lighthouse and the cliffs of Nantucket's Slasconsett and Martha's Vineyard's Gay Head. Proceeds from the plates go toward the Cape and Islands' county governments and the Cape Cod Economic Development Council to be utilized for the promotion of the Cape and Islands' natural resources and coastal heritage.

"These colorful new plates are generating a lot of excitement because now Massachusetts motorists can show off their support for these treasured areas. The plates are very easy to obtain and should become one of our most popular plate series," said Registrar of Motor Vehicles Jerold Gnazzo.

The new design was unveiled by the Registrar, as well as other state and local officials during a ceremony at the Registry of Motor Vehicles' Hyannis office. The plate was approved by the Massachusetts Legislature due to the efforts of Senator Henry Rauschenbach, (R) Brewster.

"I am happy to see this tremendous project is rolling along. The revenues generated from the sale of these plates will strengthen two very necessary and important local purposes; economic development and tourism promotion on Cape Cod and the islands," said Senator Rauschenbach. These plates will be a beacon for the cape area across the nation. We're delighted," he added.

School Notes

Please tell your superintendents...

...principals, PTO people, and parents

The contents of "School Notes" - except in the case of Reading - is based almost entirely on school news which happens to reach local newspapers.

We're always happy to cover individual, school, class, student, staff, and faculty academ*ic and athletic* achievements as well as PTO adventures and tried, true, and innovative curriculum matters. As noted in italics each weeks, we love to reprint student writing.

Please alert your school superintendents, principals, PTO officers, and other school notables that if they send their school newsletters - and other school-related material - to "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867, they will most likely see their achievements highlighted in this column so that they receive the public recognition due them for the very special work they perform each day.

Please add "School Notes" to your school mailing list.

Thank you.

'I'm worth it'

"Each month, in Tewksbury's North Street School, at least one child per classroom is honored as 'Student of the Month,' notes the Tewksbury edition of the "Town Crier."

"The status is earned as a result of completing a project (on a voluntary basis) that his-her teacher considers outstanding in that classroom.

"The students are then honored in the following manner:

"Names announced over the school's public address system; a certificate presented by a principal; a coupon to be exchanged at the school store for school related merchandise; a school (logo) button that says 'I'm Worth It' ... Principal William Tsimtos is grateful to Elaine Zunino, a North Street parent and to the school's PAC for their help and support with this project. He has extended congratulations to all the winners."

'A major step' toward reality

"After numerous meetings with the public and state officials, after discussing a myriad of funding scenarios, student relocation plans and proposed building uses, the School Committee Tuesday took a major step toward the completion of a year-long decision-making process and making the proposed school master plan a reality," notes "School Committee favors a new Lincoln, Selectmen support override" in the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"During a joint meeting with the Board of Selectmen and the Educational Facilities Planning and Building Committee ..., the School Committee voted (4-1, James Evans opposed) in favor of recommending to Town Meeting a first phase of planning and construction that includes both the renovation of the McCall Middle School and the construction of a completely new Lincoln School at the site of the former Mystic school.

"In addition, four of the five members of the Board of Selectmen expressed their support for a debt exclusion override of Proposition 2.5 to fund the first phase of the school master plan. Selectman Carol Mullin was not present at the meeting. Most likely the override question would be put on the ballot for the November election.

"The first phase of the proposed master plan includes funding for drawing and construction costs for renovating McCall Middle School, as well as money for the schematic drawings and construction for a new Lincoln School at the Mystic school site"

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867. We welcome samples of student writing.

Special Olympics looking for cars

When Special Olympics started recycling unwanted cars and trucks to help pay for athletic programs, no one expected what they would find in a pile of old cars. In just over two years Special Olympics has recycled some 20,000 old Buicks, Fords, Volvos and some vehicles aged beyond recognition into over $1 million.

"It Really has been like found money to us" said Bob Johnson, Vice President of Marketing and Development for Massachusetts Special Olympics.

The Special Olympics "Recycle for Gold" project allows people with unwanted cars and trucks, in virtually any condition, to call and have their vehicle removed free of charge.

"Recycle for Gold" was created by Massachusetts Special Olympics in December 1993. The project's rapid success captured the attention of neighboring states and soon the recycling service quickly became available in Connecticut and Rhode Island.

For more information or to donate a vehicle, call 1-800-590-1600 (24 hours).

Fall child care program openings

Northeast Metro Tech High School is accepting applications during Spring, 1996 for the Child Care Program in the fall of 1996 for three, four and five year olds. Preschoolers who live in the Northeast School District, which includes; Chelsea, Malden, Melrose, North Reading, Reading, Revere, Saugus, Stoneham, Wakefield, Winchester, Winthrop and Woburn are eligible for this program. Child Care hours are during high school hours and during the school year.

How will the preschoolers benefit from our program? they learn through play how to enjoy education. Each day they experience painting, woodworking, riding, climbing, water play, block building, housekeeping and puzzles, also developmentally appropriate activities in math, science, language, crafts, and the great outdoors! The latest innovation in our literacy based classroom is a worm farm where children can see on a small scale, the recycling of their bread crusts and apple cores.

How will Northeast Metro Tech students benefit from this program? Students through the help of their teachers, learn how to use positive guidance, develop lesson plans and activities using new themes each month.

They experience success as they learn child growth and development. After spending 720 hours in the Child Care Center and achieving the goals set by the State, the students will be licensed by the Office for Children. When high school students are ready they have School to Work opportunities with local child care centers and pre school programs.

There is a Child Care Fee. For further information call 617-246-0810 Ext. 197.

Weather-Tite, Inc. expands lines

Owens Corning is pleased to announce that Weather-Tite, Inc. has become an Owens Corning window dealer, offering a line of custom Fiberglas windows including double-hung, casement, picture, awning, bay and patio doors.

"We are very excited about offering Owens Corning Fiberglas replacement windows and patio doors to our customers," Ed Kilron, president of Weather-Tite said. "Unlike other material systems, fiberglass frames won't warp, shrink, rot or swell, and they are virtually maintenance free. Fiberglass provides dimensional stability not found in other bonded corners and extra rigidity, ensuring air-tight and water-tight performance for years."

Owens Corning has used its glass fiber technological capabilities to retain the natural beauty of wood windows while eliminating wood's natural shortcomings. Owens Corning Fiberglas Windows have the appearance of painted wood and are available in both white and beige. But for those of you who want to match your windows to a particular painting scheme, simply follow Owens Corning's painting recommendations.

"We're very excited about being an Owens Corning dealer," said Kilron. "Their marketing and quality manufacturing expertise are well known in the building materials industry. I believe the Owens Corning window line adds a new dimension to our store offering."

Weather-Tite, Inc. is located at 494 Main Street, Reading 1-800-505-2875.

Mayflower descendants have weekend plans at Plymouth

An especially enthusiastic group of visitors - numbering well over one hundred - from all corners of Massachusetts and far beyond the state, is expected at Plymouth for the weekend of Friday, June 14 through Sunday, June 16.

The Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants is celebrating the centennial year of its incorporation, and its annual "Peregrination" (pilgrimage) to Plymouth, "America's Hometown," - one of the Society's three annual events, will be bigger and better than ever.

Millions of present-day Americans (far more than are aware of it) have at least one descent from a passenger on the Mayflower. These descendants are in all parts of the country, in all walks of life, and with family names that reflect America's present ethnic diversity. There is plenty of good advice freely available for people who may remember only a family tradition that some ancestor "came over on the Mayflower.," and are interested in learning more.

The Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants, headquartered in Boston, maintains a library for genealogical research, open to the public, and sponsors educational programs, historic sites preservation, and scholarships for Wampanoag students, as well as issuing publications. An informational brochure is free at the office and library of the Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants, 376 Boylston Street, Boston MA 02116.

Community Action Foundation

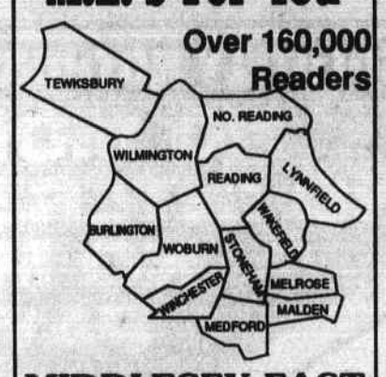

Community relations at Boston Regional Medical Center (BRMC) took a giant step into the future with the recent merging of the hospital's two long standing volunteer organizations into one entity.

The Civic Advisory Board, which acted for over 20 years as the liaison between BRMC and surrounding communities to bring the hospital's programs and developments to the area, and the 31 year old Women's Auxiliary, historically responsible for raising funds for the hospital, have combined to become the Community Action Foundation.

This new organization will support the hospital by serving as a public relations liaison between BRMC and the community, promoting projects to enhance the welfare of the community and the hospital, and raising funds and dispersing contributions for community programs and hospital projects.

"The formation of the Foundation will bring us to the threshold of the future," said Laura Hogan, president of the former Civic Advisory Board.

The Foundation will consist of representation from area businesses, churches, schools, chambers of commerce, government and town officials, social service organizations, healthcare providers and individuals residing in the surrounding communities.

Nets $120,000
Stride for Life Walkathon

Hundreds of men, women and children raised over $120,000 recently by participating in the third annual Melrose-Wakefield Hospital Stride for Life walkathon around Lake Quannapowitt in Wakefield. According to MWH Chairman of the Board, Esther Osborne, Stride for Life was truly a community affair. "We send a heartfelt thank you to the many people who contributed to the huge success of this event. We especially recognize the effort of our walkers, volunteers, employees, auxilians, trustees and physicians," she said.

"Thanks to the exemplary community spirit, kindness and generosity, the Cardiac Survival Project will be able to continue to offer low-cost CPR training, purchase life saving defibrillators for public safety personnel and support many community efforts to increase the rate of survival from cardiac arrest."

In an outstanding show of support, many area businesses and corporations stepped forward to contribute funds to Stride for Life, raising over $90,000 toward the goal. Lead corporate sponsors with donations of $10,000 included Massbank for Savings and the Melrose-Wakefield Hospital Medical Staff. The Melrose-Wakefield Hospital Auxiliary contributed a generous $15,000.

"Stride for Life contributions are still coming in," says Charles Rand, director of Fund Development. Those who were unable to participate in Stride for Life may still contribute by sending their donation to Melrose-Wakefield Hospital, Stride for Life, 484 Lebanon Street, Melrose, MA 02176.

Currently in Massachusetts, victims of cardiac arrest have less than a five percent chance of survival. The goal of the Cardiac Survival Project is to strengthen what the American Heart Association calls the "Chain of Survival," that is, the steps that must be taken - in rapid sequence - to save the life of a person whose heart has stopped.

Eric's wins FTD award

Eric's Greenhouses of Reading has recently been recognized as a Top 1000 Member of Florists' Transworld Delivery (FTD).

Each year, the Top 100, 250, 500 and 1,000 FTD Florists in the United States and Canada are given special recognition, based on the number of floral orders sent through FTD.

"It's a great pleasure to recognize the efforts of our Top Members," said Meg Whitman, FTD President and CEO. "Their commitment to building their businesses and dedication to FTD's high quality standards deserve to be noticed."

Founded in 1910, FTD is the leader of the 'flowers-by-wire" business, connecting approximately 23,000 North American retail florists and supporting an international floral delivery network of approximately 60,000 florists in 145 countries.

Woodchips

ANTHONY MANCONI

Frank Meli told me this "Chip" years ago. Over 100 employees in a shoe factory had to be sent home because the motor that supplied power to the many belts and shafts failed. The shop mechanic couldn't find the cause of the break-down, so an expert had to be called. A well-dressed electrical engineer and recent graduate of MIT opened the main power panel, then taking a small screwdriver from his lapel pocket, he reached in and turned "ONE" of the "MANY" screws. He then threw the main switch and the giant motor came to life. The many shafts and belts started to turn as the shoe-making machines were back in business. The factory owner was elated because it took the young engineer less than 20 minutes to find the problem - so how much could he charge? He thanked the young man and told him to send a bill. The owner got a shock the next morning when the bill said: "For turning one screw, 10 cents, for knowing 'which screw' to turn, two hundred dollars."

Winston Churchill was a great dynamic speaker. He said "I know great crowds come to hear me speak BUT, if instead of making a political speech I was being 'Hanged' the crowd would be twice as big." In a very poor section of Peru, a missionary seeing a boy wearing only 'one' shoe asked, "How did you 'lose' the other shoe?" "I didn't" the poor boy replied. "I 'found' this one."

My friend, Larry Garabedian, is a one man "Welcome Wagon." He visits the sick and shut-ins, bringing them hope and encouragement to "Hang in there." Woodchips is proud to know a man who brings good cheer to so many.

I walked into Joe's Diner and asked the pretty waitress, "where's Joe?" "He's 'out' to lunch" she replied. "What!" I exclaimed, "doesn't he eat here?" "Look here Fatso," she shouted, "Joe may be a little crazy BUT he's 'NOT' stupid!"

I remember when bank manager Richard Staff was interviewing a prospective bank cashier. He counted a stack of one hundred dollar bills correctly in seconds. So he "passed" the first test. "Where have you been in the last four years?" he was asked. "I've been in 'Yale.'" "Holy smokes!" Richie exclaimed to himself, "I've got a really qualified person for the bank." So Richie asked, what's your name? The man smiled and said "My name is Yimmy Yohnson." (Note: he didn't get the YOB.)

I asked Tony Marmo what he likes about Woodchips? Tony smiled and said, "I look forward to cutting it out of the newspaper - it fits 'just right' on the bottom of my bird cage."

Kathy told the doctor that she feels dizzy for a half hour when she gets up in the morning. The doctor told her "the remedy is, get 'UP a half hour' later."

My uncle John Shea called up his bosom friend Rowan Fitzgerald and said, "Rowan, I want to borrow $200." "What did you say?" "I said I want to borrow $200." "What did you say?" The telephone operator cut in and exclaimed, "Sir, there isn't anything wrong with your phone, I can hear your party perfectly well!" "Is that so dearie?" Rowan shouted, "then 'you' give that creep the $200 he's trying to get from me!"

Arnie Goodman, my friend and fellow columnist, has the wonderful physique of a lineman for the "Green Bay Packers football team. Dennis Tully sang this song to his teacher "Congratulations teacher dear. You made it through another year. And, Hip Horray for another survivor, the Grouch, Grumpy school bus driver."

I attended a retirement party for a teacher who had taught school for over thirty five years. I said to her "I know you stayed so long because of love of children and the joy of imparting knowledge to the future generations, but if you would like to tell me, what was most important for your long term of teaching?" She smiled and said "Chipper there were 'three reasons,' June, July and August." A rooster's lament "Aw what the heck is the use? Yesterday an Egg, Today a Rooster and Tomorrow a Feather Duster!"

Don't Leave Your Mark on Your National Parks

You'd complain, too, if someone left trash in your backyard. Lots of animals call our national parks home — from panthers to porcupines, from moose to mice, from coyotes to cardinals. But people are spoiling their habitats.

It's our job to protect them. So that kids for years to come can enjoy America's best field trip. Visit our national parks, and you'll find wild mountains, ancient canyons, and untamed rivers. Walk the same paths as the pioneers. Experience learning that doesn't come from books.

For Father's Day

What's for Dad?

It's June again and you know what that means - time to choose that special Father's Day gift. But does your father have enough neckties to choke a horse? And does he need one more golf shirt? If you are at a loss for what to buy the man in your life who has everything, check out the following ideas for a unique, useful gift.

What man doesn't enjoy grilling out? If you father has been struggling with charcoal and lighter fluid, why not consider a gas grill? Gas grills are safe, easy-to-use and come in a variety of sizes.

"Char-broil makes a popular medium-sized grill with a convenient side burner," says Bob Liedberg of the Home Depot. "These gas grills are much more convenient than the traditional charcoal grill, and they work great."

Another gift for those dads who enjoy working outdoors is a gas-powered trimmer. Some brands even have attachments that can be purchased to expand the capabilities of the trimmer. A popular brand, Ryobi, offers attachments including blowers, vacuums, snow throwers, pruners and cultivators. These trimmers offer two different cutting speeds and have an adjustable handle.

Black and Decker has recently added to its line of VersaPak tools with outdoor products for the lawn and garden. The new tools include cordless brooms, scrubbers, grass shears and blade trimmers. All tools are cordless and use the interchangeable VersaPak battery system. These tools are perfect for the father who wants to work in the yard, but wants it to be easy and hassle-free.

Another unique gift for fathers is a cordless drill kit. Ryobi offers a 50-piece power kit. The kit contains drill bits, screwdriver bits, a socket set, bit extender and charger.

Work Smart Outdoors: Safety Tips.

The weather is warming up and now's the time to tackle your outdoor projects while enjoying the season. Home Depot Store Manager Philip Carol says, "Any home improvement project includes a potentially dangerous situation. The key is to work smart and take precautions." Here are a few safety tips from the experts at The Home Depot:

- Always wear safety goggles when painting the exterior of your home to protect your eyes from splatters and dripping residue.
- Beware of hidden bee and animal nests when working outdoors.
- Be sure to turn off the power before making electrical connections or hooking up satellite equipment.

CHOOSE THE PERFECT FATHER'S DAY GIFT from Black & Decker's assortment of products that make working in the yard easy.

Repair concrete cracks

Many homeowners discover cracks appearing in driveways, sidewalks, foundations and basement floors for no apparent reason. "Cracks can occur when expansion joints or reinforcement wire are not used in the original construction," explains Mark Wacho, a building materials specialist at The Home Depot. "It's important to repair cracks when they're small. If they are not repaired, they can grow longer and deeper. When this happens in a driveway, for instance, water seeping through the crack can erode the soil underneath and cause the slab to shift."

Unfilled cracks in driveways and sidewalks also are an open invitation to wild vegetation which can grow in the cracks and make them larger.

Cracks in basements allow moisture to enter the home from soil behind the foundational walls or from underneath the floor. In addition, cracks are an open door into your home for ants and other insects which live in the ground. And, whether inside or outside the home, cracks in concrete are unsightly and pose a danger. Even a slight difference in height between the two sides of the crack on a floor can cause someone to trip and fall. So, if it's cracked, fill it! Here's how.

Choose a mild, dry day if working outdoors First, use a wire brush or chisel to remove loose material from the crack. Them use a ball-peen hammer and cold chisel to create a dovetail surface, which will prevent the repair material from pushing out of the crack. The final step in preparation is application of a bonding liquid. "The bonding liquid helps the new concrete adhere to the old concrete," explainsMark.

Horizontal cracks

For horizontal cracks, pour sand into the crack to within half an inch of the surface. Mix vinyl-reinforced concrete or prepare a portland cement-water paste with enough sand added to make it gritty. Trowel the mixture into the crack, overfilling slightly, then feather it out even with the surface.

Vertical cracks

For vertical cracks, use the same procedure except that the first concrete mixture should be troweled in a thickness of one quarter to one-half inches and allowed to dry.

Then apply additional layers until the crack is slightly overfilled, then feather it out with the surface.

Pop-ups

To repair pop-ups, use a ball-peen hammer and masonry chisel to chip out the rocks at the bottom of the pop-up-hole.

Remove dirt and debris with a shop vacuum and, if the hole contains oil or grease, wash with a detergent and rinse with water.

Coat the edges of the hole with a latex bonding liquid. Mix concrete with water, then stir in the bonding liquid. Pour in the mixture and smooth with a flexible knife or trowel.

One important thing to remember throughout the repair process is future prevention. Many problems of concrete cracking, chipping, crumbling and pop-outs are due to improper installation. Remember to have the proper water-to-concrete mix, and a slower drying process is almost always advisable. You can slow the drying process by covering new concrete with plastic.

FREE OVER THE PHONE MARKET EVALUATION WITH A GUARANTEE!

If you are thinking of selling your home within the next 12 months, why not get an approximation of the market value of your property . . . right over the phone?

It's simple . . . call our office at 944-6060 and answer a few questions about the type, style, lot size, taxes and amenities of your home. With this information we will do a Market Analysis and call you back promptly.

Of course, a more accurate analysis of your property's value will require us to do an interior inspection of your home to check for the quality of finishes, room layout and several other factors.

This inspection has several other advantages too! Primarily we can advise you about what repairs to do or not to do! Often owners think they must do a lot more work than they really need to . . . but it's important to do the right things that will attract the buyer's attention!

A FIX-UP GUARANTEE
If we can't recommend after our inspection at least three fix-up ideas to you that you haven't thought of, we'll take $100 off the commission when the property sells!

REAL ESTATE SAMPLER

This Week... Reading

Charming Federal antique

This week's sampler home is in the Town of Reading.

Registered with the Reading Historical Commission*, this very charming Federal Antique sits upon a small slope facing in a southerly direction. Two gracious maple trees and a stately pine tree frame the front of the home which is located on a quiet street that was formerly an old coaching road to the north (c. 1806.) It was later supplanted by the fast and more expansive Medford-Andover Turnpike (what is now Main Street.)

Because you typically find older homes located on the main streets, it is especially pleasant to encounter our featured property off the main thoroughfare at 739 Pearl Street in Reading. An additional delight is to learn that the property abuts Bare Meadow (town conservation land,) 85 acres of open field and forest, near the North Reading border. Ski trails, running trails with exercise stations and hiking trails are maintained in this area. This area is also the site of the Reading community gardens, where citizens may use a plot of fertile garden space for vegetable gardening.

The house is in the traditional 5-bay form, with a graceful Federal door enframement. The original square, leaded transom is supported on tapered pilasters. This is a refined version of Reading's more common plain door enframement. Built in the 1830's, it reflects a style which had been in use for thirty years.

The main house features eight rooms, four bedrooms and two baths. There are five fireplaces and numerous "original" features throughout the home. The current owner has embellished the home by adding a tasteful addition which incorporates a beautiful first floor, fireplaced familyroom and bath plus a large master suite and an additional second floor bedroom. This addition compliments the character of the original house, enhancing its old world charm.

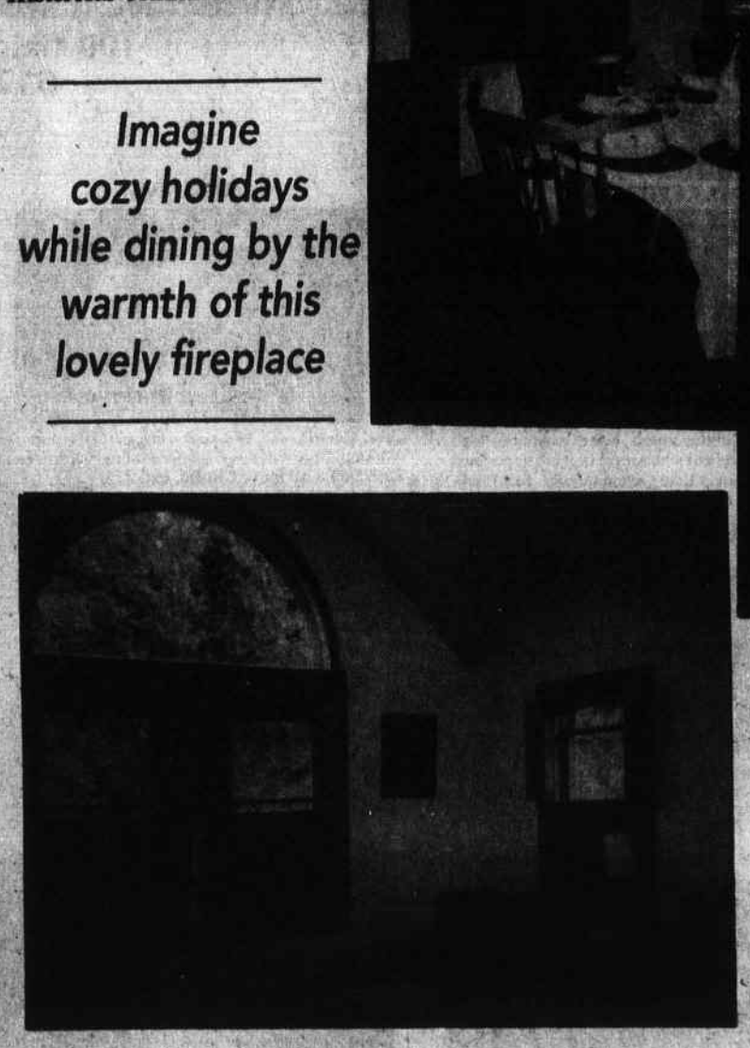

There is also an attached in-law apartment consisting of four rooms and a bath to accommodate a growing family or guests.

This property is offered by Colonial Manor Realty, with Judi Kramer as Listing Broker. For more information, call 617-944-6300.

*Some information obtained from the files of the Reading Historical Commission.

BEAMING WITH CURB APPEAL, this Reading antique colonial was constructed in the 1830s. It is being offered at $359,900 by Colonial Manor Realty . This historic home is worth seeing.

Imagine cozy holidays while dining by the warmth of this lovely fireplace
